

Tax Plan Would Slice Spending by $4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler gave Congress an administration proposal today for a $7.4 billion tax increase and a $4 billion spending cut, and said it would be unthinkable not to enact it promptly.

Fowler said the combination would cut the expected deficit from more than $25 billion to less than $14 billion and amount to a giant step in strengthening the U.S. dollar out of sight Tuesday when Congress meets.

Fowler appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee which shelved President Johnson's tax proposal almost two months ago, saying it could be considered when Congress and the executive agreed on spending cuts.

The odds against getting a tax bill through even one house of Congress this year went almost out of sight Tuesday when Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee said it would be impossible in that branch where all money measures start. But the administration kept trying.

spending cut this year, divided roughly equally between civilian and non-Vietnam defense budgets.

Leading members of the committee have continued to oppose a tax measure unless even deeper cuts are made.

The tax components of the administration plan is based on a 10 per cent surcharge on the income tax paid by individuals and corporations, accelerating the collection of some corporate taxes and deferring scheduled declines in excise taxes.

"Never More Decisive"

"Never have we been confronted by a fiscal problem which, in my judgment, was more decisive for our country and the free world," Fowler solemnly told the committee.

Fowler said he has a deep-seated personal conviction, presented with "all of the earnestness at my command, that favorable action by the Congress on the proposals to be placed before you cannot be further deferred without undue and unacceptable risk to the nation's economic and financial structure and the international monetary system."

Fowler was seconded by Budget Director Charles L. Schultze.

As if in direct response to Mills' statement that the "tax job cannot be done this year, Fowler told the committee "delay can be as damaging as defeat."

"It is unthinkable to me to allow this session of Congress to conclude without an all-out effort by all responsible forces to enact into law the proposals to be presented today," he said.

The tax portion of the bill he presented is Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge and related tax changes intact, including provisions that would make the additional income tax retroactive to last Oct. 1 for individuals and last July 1 for corporations.

The new spending control portion of the legislation would cut back appropriation authority for the fiscal year ending next June 30 by the following formula:

McNamara's Resignation War Step-Up Seen...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara didn't even know he was being nominated for the Namara's impending resignation. World Bank post, a Pentagon spokesman replied:

"I am not going to discuss the secretary's conversations with the President. But any implication that the secretary was not aware of the nomination is untrue."

The board of the World Bank was to meet informally today to consider nomination of McNamara for the organization's presidency. It was not known if a decision would be made immediately or when McNamara might quit his Pentagon post if he is selected.

Some congressional sources greeted word of the defense chief's retirement with predictions a stepped-up U.S. military drive in Vietnam is in the works.

Question by Kennedy

And Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., questioned publicly whether McNamara is stepping out voluntarily. He cited some reports the secretary did not want to quit.

Kennedy, member of a family with close personal ties to McNamara, said it was important that Congress and the public "know really what is the basis" for the move.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., called on McNamara in a Senate speech to stay on the job. He described the secretary as a last summer and got presidential backing for holding down the number.

Although McNamara later denied he intended it as such, the secretary's comments on the large ratio of supply to combat troops was interpreted as a statement at the general's organizational setup.

Westmoreland, returning to Saigon after conferring with Johnson and other U.S. leaders, was queried about recurring rumors he may be relieved of his command soon.

"I've been led to believe I'll remain in my post," Westmoreland said.

Jet Fighters Repulse Attack by Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of Viet Cong troops assaulted a government district headquarters near the Cambodian border for 5 1/2 hours today and overran some of the 200 defenders before jet fighters strafed and bombed the Reds into retreat.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said 65 enemy bodies were found inside and nearby the perimeter of the district headquarters compound at Bo Duc, 80 miles north of Saigon.

He said 15 government soldiers were killed and 19 wounded.

Simultaneous with the ground attack only three miles from the Cambodian border, the Viet Cong shelled a government outpost four miles to the south and a U.S. Special Forces camp 16 miles to the south. Government casualties were reported light in those attacks, and there was no report of U.S. casualties.

Hit-and-Run

The attack at Bo Duc continued a pattern of scattered Communist shelling and hit-and-run ground attacks that has prevailed since the end of the Dak To battle last week.

Elsewhere only small scattered skirmishes were logged in the ground war.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. Navy bombers on Tuesday came closer to the center of Haiphong than they have in some days.

Attacking pilots reported leaving secondary explosions and broken tracks in the railroad yards 1.7 miles northwest of the port city's center. They said they did heavy damage to the northern span of a rail and highway bridge a mile west of downtown Haiphong.

Both the yards and the bridge had been attacked before.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the Bo Duc headquarters was attacked by troops of the 272nd Viet Cong Regiment, the same regiment that made a week-long series of attacks early in November on the Loc Ninh district headquarters 10 miles southwest of Bo Duc. U.S. forces said they counted 918 enemy bodies at Loc Ninh.

The attack on Bo Duc could be the start of an action similar to the battle at Loc Ninh, where one of the apparent Communist aims was to draw U.S. and South Vietnamese forces away from pacification efforts in more populous regions. Four U.S. battalions were diverted to the defense of Loc Ninh.

Reinforcements from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and from South Vietnamese infantry units were ordered into the Bo Duc area today, but the action was reported over just as dawn began to break. There was no assurance, however, that the Viet Cong would not try again.

Britain, Egypt to Resume Relations

LONDON (AP) — Britain announced today diplomatic relations will be resumed with Egypt Dec. 12, just two years after they were broken by the Egyptians over the Rhodesian crisis.

The Foreign Office announced the appointment of Sir Harold Beeley as British ambassador in Cairo.

Wake of Devaluation Exchequer Head Quits in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan resigned today in the wake of Britain's devaluation of the pound. He switched places with Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, who succeeds him at the treasury.

The switch brings to the British treasury one of the Cabinet's leading exponents of Britain joining the Common Market. Jenkins is believed to have favored devaluation of the pound for months before it took place Nov. 18. Callaghan's three-year tenure at the treasury was dominated by his unsuccessful battle to avoid devaluation.

Meanwhile Prime Minister Harold Wilson accused President Charles De Gaulle today of trying to lead Europe backwards.

Britain wants to join with those who want a united Europe, Wilson said.

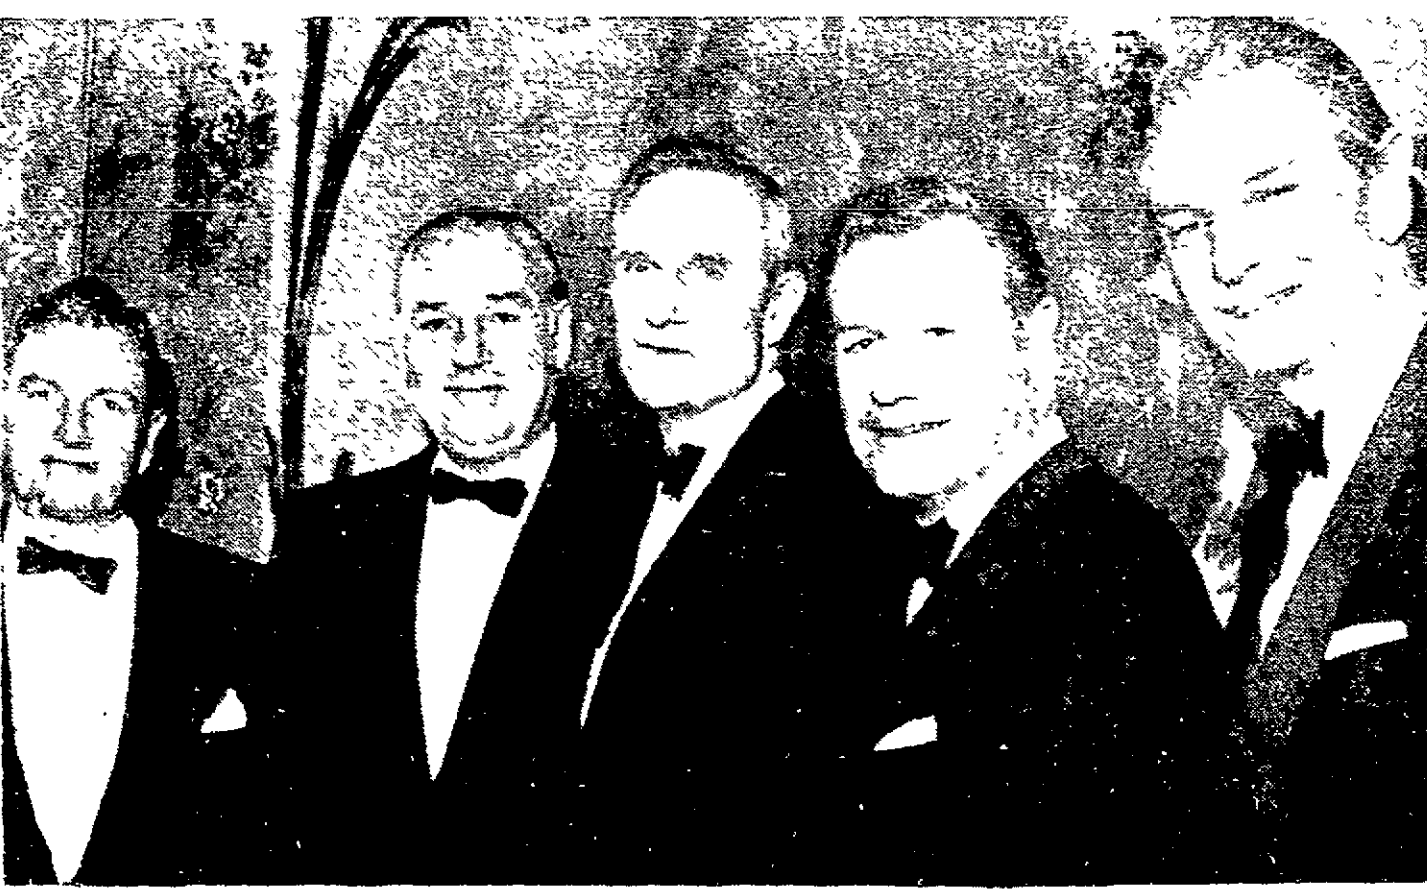

The prime minister chose a luncheon of correspondents who cover Parliament to make a point-by-point reply to De Gaulle's arguments against British entry into the European Common Market.

It was not Britain, he said, that was trying to break up Europe. Wilson charged De Gaulle with representing "a static conception of Europe."

"I have tried to make clear to all our friends in Europe that those who rely on the static concept in a rapidly moving world are moving backwards," he said.

The prime minister noted that at a news conference Monday De Gaulle said British admission into the European community was not the way to keep Europe from becoming dependent on the United States.

Wilson replied: "Answer: What matters here is not words but action. Such action as the creation of the European technology... But while Britain is prepared to take an initiative in this field in advance of negotiations (to join the Common Market), that initiative will become a reality in terms of European industrial independence only if we in Europe are ready to take all the steps necessary to create a single European industrial market."

...Ike Wants to Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower always defeatists: "People say, 'Oh, you can't win. What are we going to do? Better stop right here.' Well, that's silly. And I say, of course they can do it."

In the past Eisenhower has repeatedly declined to recommend any specific strategy in the war. He said again in the interview, "I don't believe anyone is in a position, that isn't living this problem all the time, to criticize in detail the conduct of this war."

At another point, however, Eisenhower and Bradley were asked if there was something else the nation could be doing now in Vietnam. Their replies, according to a transcript, included the following:

EISENHOWER: This respecting of boundary lines on a map.

War Chances Lessen Vance Meets With Makarios as Turk Jets Fly Overhead

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish jet fighters buzzed Nicosia today while U.S. special envoy Cyrus Vance conferred with Greek Cypriot leaders on their opposition to Turkey's withdrawal of Greek troops in Cyprus.

Makarios is opposed to withdrawal of Greek troops unless all Turkish troops also withdraw and his government is given firm international guarantees against foreign intervention. But the Turkish government refuses to abandon the Turkish Cypriot minority, contending that the Turkish garrison is the only guarantee of protection for it against the Greek Cypriot majority.

It was generally believed in Cyprus that Makarios would have to go along with anything Greece agreed to.

ATHENS (AP) — Informed diplomatic sources said tonight Greece and Turkey have come to agreement on the Cyprus problem and simultaneous announcements to this effect will be made later from both Athens and Ankara.

At another point he said: "The first principle of war is to win quickly. I think that if you're going to appeal to force, and disregard all international means of getting this thing settled, then get all the force you can as quickly as you can."

Jets Over Nicosia

Vance flew to Nicosia from Athens after a long day and night of consultations with the Greek government. Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis described the situation as "delicate and dangerous" but said he thought war with Turkey was "less of a possibility now."

Vance and President Makarios, the leader of the Greek Cypriot community, met for an hour at the presidential palace while Turkish Air Force jets screamed overhead. It was their second day over Nicosia and their 12th successive day over Cyprus.

The Greek government has been reported willing to withdraw the 8,000-12,000 Greek soldiers who were infiltrated into Cyprus in violation of the 1960 Zurich agreements which gave the island its independence from Britain. These provide for garrisons of 950 Greek troops and 650 Turkish troops in Cyprus.

Prepare New Plan For Vietnam Villages

Permanent Pacification Teams Will be Composed of Popular Forces From Area

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — For the umpteenth time, a major change in the all-important pacification program in South Vietnam is now in the works, but it may turn out to be the most realistic approach yet taken to end Communist control in the villages.

Ture, U. S. experts in the

Evans Novak

"other war" have retooled their program more times in the past eight years than anybody in the Johnson administration cares to recall. Each change is hailed, then falls or falls far short. What makes it so vital is that, even if the military war goes splendidly, a solution of the Vietnam question depends upon pacification.

This latest change may be different. It goes to the heart of what has been wrong with the effort to establish a system of political control and security for hamlets under long term Communist Control. At present, a hamlet declared "pacified" by over-optimistic officials all too often turns out not to be pacified at all. When the Black Pajama pacification team leaves, the "pacified" hamlet returns to Communist control.

Permanent Teams

Under the new plan, discussed at great length in the White House during Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's visit here, pacification teams will be permanently assigned to a hamlet, instead of moving in for two or three months and then moving on.

This requires a major change

International School Clintonville Teacher a Hong Kong Principal

BY MARY WALTER Post-Crescent Staff Writer

HONG KONG — The only American school in Hong Kong is the Hong Kong International school for grades kindergarten through twelfth. Its elementary principal is Lester Zimmerman who spent the previous seven years as mathematics teacher at St. Martin Lutheran School at Clintonville, Wis.

Although the International School opened the brand new doors on its seven-story building only this September, it had provided rented quarters for a school the previous year. Six hundred fifty youngsters of 15 nationalities now attend the school. About 80 per cent of them are the children of Americans now living in Hong Kong and some 13 per cent are Chinese. The teaching staff reflects the diversity of the student body. Again the majority are American, recruited by the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, but there are also British, Chinese, Australian and Burmese teachers. The school is both international and interdenominational.

Part of the pressure for a school for American children in Hong Kong came from the difference in the school calendar between British and American educational systems. Those at British schools in Hong Kong put in about 245 days of school compared with the 180-day American school year. The longest vacations are five weeks in August and three weeks during the Chinese New Year. The International school must adjust to both systems to some extent and Thanksgiving Day is a holiday. Equally confusing, especially for children here only a short time, is the difference in presenting subject matter especially at the secondary level.

Zimmerman, his wife, who teaches kindergarten and sixth grade, and their two children, Kathleen, in fourth grade, and Michael, in first, are highly enthusiastic about the school. Hong Kong, and their own work in the area. They will be here for at least three years.

Next to the school, but not officially connected with it, is the church of All Nations — Lutheran. Religious instruction is given in the school, as it is in all schools, private and government sponsored in Hong Kong.

Plan 1,000 Teams

Beyond this, the rapid deterioration of Main Force Viet Cong units is reducing the all-out attacks on hamlets occupied by pacification teams. This means less fear of being overrun at night, which should make pacification workers less vulnerable to Communist propaganda.

The new plan claims that 1,000 of the new teams will be trained and on duty in 1,000 hamlets by the end of next year. If one half that goal is reached, U. S. planners won't be unhappy. But even at the planned rate of 1,000 trained teams a year, it will be several years before all Communist-infiltrated hamlets are taken care of.

Thus, even if everything goes well, the political war will continue for many years, a fact that more and more is being conceded by top officials in Washington.

Long Copper Strike Leaves Deep Scars

Utah Miners Determined to Stay With Demands Until They Are Met

AP Business Writer

"I've been through them all since 1943 and this could be the worst. But I don't care if it lasts from now 'til kingdom come, we'll hang on."

That's Delmus Knadle, a veteran Magna, Utah, miner, talking about the strike that has throttled the U.S. copper industry since July 15.

The strike has cost many millions of dollars in copper company revenue and miners' wages.

But it drags on with the companies and a coalition of unions, headed by the United Steelworkers of America, apparently just about as far apart as at the beginning.

The strike's impact on individuals and communities has been harsh because most of the mines and smelters are located in small Western towns mainly dependent on a one-industry payroll.

No Shortage

But, while the strike has shut down 95 per cent of the nation's copper mine production, 80 per cent of its copper processing capacity and 33 per cent of its copper fabricating capacity, there has been no severe copper shortage. The loss in production is estimated at 650,000 tons of refined copper.

The ability to maintain output of copper products to meet the needs of private industry and the Vietnam war is due to two factors:

By last June, mills and foundries, anticipating a strike, had built their inventories to record 641,083 tons. And they have been buying foreign copper at premium prices and passing on the extra cost to consumers.

Higher Price

Although builders and automobile radiator manufacturers were reported starting to feel the pinch, an industry source said:

"There's no copper shortage if you want to pay the price."

The Defense Department has been able to meet its copper needs under the priorities system provided for by the Defense Production Act.

Negotiations in the bitter dispute that has idled about 50,000 workers have been at a virtual standstill ever since the walkout began.

The companies estimate their offer to the unions at 50.6 cents an hour more than the old wage scales over three years. The steelworkers union and 21 smaller unions demand a boost they compute at 99 cents an hour. Each side disputes the other's computations.

The U.S. Labor Department has reported that the average hourly wage in the copper mining industry last July was $3.28. The companies' official stand is this:

Demands Inflexible

"To date negotiations are at an impasse because two inflexible union coalition demands block meaningful bargaining. These are the coalition's insistence on a highly inflationary wage and fringe package with uniform industrywide wage scale and expiration date and companywide bargaining which is not feasible for such dissimilar industry operations as exist in copper mining, lead-zinc mining and copper and brass fabricating."

The unions last week issued a statement saying:

"This strike has been provoked and perpetuated by major employers whose aims have little to do with the terms of the labor contract."

The unions accused the companies of trying to exhaust surplus copper supplies to trigger governmental intervention, set the stage for a substantial copper price increase and to "starve the strikers into submission."

Copper Centers

Most of the nation's copper is produced in Arizona, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah.

The long strike has hurt these states through loss of wages, sales and taxes. In Utah it was estimated that the loss to the state's economy by mid-November was $47 million.

Strikers in the small mining towns are getting along without paychecks by tightening their belts, subsisting on savings, union benefits ranging up to $30 a week and food stamps.

"The kids don't ask for things any more the way they used from their checks," says Frank Gonzales, an Ajo, Ariz., miner. "I used to stop off at the tavern every night after work to drink beer with the boys. I don't now. I still have a beer, but every other day."

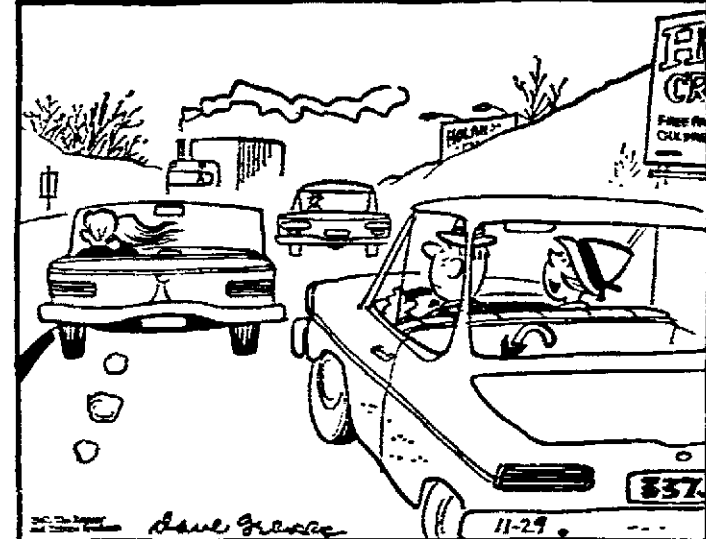

The miners in Ajo, a company-owned town, perhaps are getting along better than strikers in some other areas. Their employer, Phelps-Dodge Corp., is paying their utilities and rent on company-owned houses. The owner of the Butte Warehouse company mercantile store has given the miners up to $35 credit a week to buy food, clothing and other necessities. When the

Judges Argue Point Of Right to be Charged

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — In a stern dissent, Wisconsin Supreme Court Justices Nathan Heffernan and Horace Wilkie argued Tuesday that a Milwaukee trial court had found a man guilty of a crime with which he never had been charged — and that the state's high court had supported that decision in the face of the state constitution.

All persons have a right under Wisconsin's founding charter, and federal concepts of due process, to demand and know the nature and cause of accusations against them, the dissenters pointed out to the five-man majority of their bench.

The court, in a majority decision written by Justice Conner Hansen, held that a Milwaukee Circuit Court acted properly in finding Michael La Fond not guilty of a charge of sexual intercourse with a child, and then amending the charge to include contributing to the delinquency of a child, and finding La Fond guilty of that offense on the basis of information gained in the trial just concluded.

Judge Decides

"The defendant was charged with one offense and then, after all the evidence was in — after the defendant was foreclosed of any opportunity to defend on another charge — the judge... found the defendant guilty of a crime with which he had not been charged, but which he felt was proved by the evidence," wrote Heffernan.

La Fond was prosecuted for the initial charge after he harbored a runaway 16-year-old girl in his apartment for several days. He was then 20 years of age, and he admitted knowing that she had been reported as a missing person.

After Judge David V. Jennings Jr. had found La Fond not guilty of the initial charge and had announced him guilty of the new second charge, La Fond's attorney, the prosecutor and the judge conferred in a private conference at the bench, which was not recorded.

Parole Hearing

The judge then gave his decision. La Fond was sent to another court that same day for a hearing on parole violation, and sentenced to a five-year term in the state reformatory at Green Bay.

La Fond then was returned to Jennings' court, and sentenced to a one year term in the reformatory, to run concurrently with the five year sentence imposed earlier that same day.

La Fond in his appeal had argued it was an error to find him not guilty of the felony charge, and then amend it to find him guilty of a misdemeanor.

The majority opinion pointed out that at no time during the proceedings was there an objection by La Fond or his attorney to the process followed.

Indicates Agreement

In fact, the record seems to indicate agreement, the high court's majority opinion suggested.

The majority also rejected a claim that the process placed La Fond in double jeopardy for the same offense. The charges can be varied under state law, the opinion stated.

Heffernan and Wilkie strongly dissented on that point.

Variances in charges cannot materially affect the nature of the charge, they pointed out. When the majority said that the two charges did not constitute double jeopardy, they implicitly accepted the major differences in the two charges, Heffernan argued.

It also erred in arguing that the objection was not timely, he went on to say. The defendant was not included in the agreement between the court and his attorney as to the outcome of the case.

And if justice requires, late objections must be considered in legal actions, he added.

Vote Use of Winnebago County Airstrip

Temporary Traffic Pattern Approved Until Tower Is Built

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County Board, in a special meeting today, passed an amendment that will allow use of the county airport's new north-south runway prior to relocation of the control tower.

The amendment stipulated that only takeoffs from north to south and landings from south to north will be allowed. Thus, the tower would not prove an obstacle to air traffic.

Aviation committeemen had previously discussed moving the existing tower to provide adequate air traffic control before the runway would be used.

The tower is now situated at the north end of the new runway. The proposed new tower will be located to the south of the present tower and will be on the western side of the north-south runway.

Completed Next Spring
County aviation officials had been undecided on moving the present tower or building a new one. The north-south runway

State Refunds 10 Days Late As of Today

Valley Cities Need Allocations to Mail Tax Bills for '67

Unless the Wisconsin Department of Taxation announces sales tax credit refund allocations for Appleton and other municipalities within the next few days — the 1967 tax bills may be later than usual.

The observation came today from Henry Schreve, Appleton's director of finance.

Schreve, and officials from other communities in the Fox Valley, have been eagerly awaiting the state figures. Without them they cannot project the credit refund on personal and real estate property tax bills.

Expect Increase
Appleton's credit refund in 1967 amounted to $3.55 per $1,000 assessed valuation on each tax bill. It may be a few cents higher for 1968.

"We will need 15 days to prepare the tax bills," Schreve said, adding that the treasurer's office usually needs about 10

Revision Asked On Zoning Code

Commission Denies Two Requests; More Anticipated

Two requests for revisions in the proposed new Appleton zoning code — both involving properties in the 7th Ward — were rejected Tuesday by the plan commission.

The changes were sought by Erik Madisen Jr. for a building at 1300 W. Prospect Ave., and Roland Kuehl, owner of the property at 1338 W. Prospect.

An estimated half-dozen amendments and objections, submitted by various property owners, were reviewed by the commission during the Tuesday forenoon session which was the second in two days and again today.

Change Sought
Madisen, operator of a publishing company, said his property should not be zoned single family and asked it be changed to commercial because it now has an office and two apartments.

Madisen said the commission should take steps to eliminate the non-conforming use of his property, and zone it according to trends.

He has an agreement with the

Robert English, 26, 209 Cleveland St., Menasha, was fined $40 and costs or 30 days in jail and his driver's license was suspended for 15 days Tuesday after he changed his plea to guilty of speeding 95 miles per hour in a 55 zone on State 41, near Outagamie County Trunk E, July 22.

English had pleaded innocent and trial was set for Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. He was arrested about 1 a.m. by state police.

WSU-O Student Case

Evidence Ruling Asked In Marijuana Charge

OSHKOSH — The attorney for Stephen R. Evans, a Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh student charged with giving away marijuana, this morning moved to suppress two confessions, a vial and a pipe from being used as evidence.

No ruling on suppression of the evidence had been made by Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane at noon today, and the hearing went on into the afternoon.

Evans' attorney, Allen Eisenberg, Milwaukee, is attempting to prove that the method of obtaining the confessions, the pipe and the vial were illegal.

Contained Marijuana
Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink contends that the pipe, taken from Evans' dormitory room, and the vial, taken from a WSU-O coed who implicated him, contained marijuana.

Evans, a 21-year-old native of Juneau, Wis., is charged with giving the marijuana to the

Appleton Man, Son, Lost Lives At Unmarked Grade in February

Calling the crossing "dangerous to human life," the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin today ordered the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. to install two automatic signals at the crossing of its tracks with Outagamie County Trunk DD (Wisconsin Avenue) in Little Chute.

The crossing, presently unmarked, was the scene of a car-train accident the night of Feb. 8 that resulted in the deaths of Robert J. Koss, 27, Route 4, Appleton, and his adopted son, Joseph, 1.

Youth Says Companion Had Money 17-Year-Old Placed On Probation Claims Cash Brought to Car

A 17-year-old Appleton youth who had been put on probation the day before, told the court Tuesday how Thomas Kruse, 18, 1726 E. Marquette St., went to the Clark Station, 2010 W. Wisconsin Ave., early the morning of Nov. 6 and returned to his car with more than $1,000 cash and cartons of cigarettes.

The young Appleton boy, who said he was with Kruse at the time, testified at a preliminary hearing Tuesday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, Judge Gustave J. Keller, after hearing testimony from three witnesses, found probable cause to believe "Kruse" stole money from the Clark Station, but postponed decision on a bindover to Circuit Court until Friday afternoon.

Kruse, who has a court-appointed attorney, remains in jail under $2,500 bond. Thomas J. Wege, 17, 2710 E. Wisconsin Ave., will have a preliminary hearing Friday afternoon on a charge of receiving part of the $1,012 taken from the Clark Station.

One Year Probation
The 17-year-old youth who testified Tuesday was placed on one year probation to the Outagamie County Jail.

Driver Minus License Also Pays Traffic Fine

Originally charged with driving after suspension of his license, James W. Kmecheck, 24, 1235 1/2 W. College Ave., was fined $20 and costs or 10 days in jail Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to an amended charge of driving without a license.

He also was fined another $20 and costs or 10 more days in jail after changing his plea to guilty on a charge of disobeying a stop sign. Appleton police arrested Kmecheck about 1:45 a.m. June 9 at College Avenue and Memorial Drive. The change in plea came on the day scheduled for trial in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Hospital Gets Accreditation For Standards

Appleton Memorial Patient Care Earns 3-Year Certificate

Appleton Memorial Hospital has been fully accredited for its high standards of patient care, it was announced today.

In a letter following its survey Aug. 8, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals reported that Appleton Memorial had received a full three-year certificate for the third consecutive time. The citation is based on excellence in administration, medical staff and nursing services.

The official notification was sent to John R. Shepard, hospital administrator, Roger A. Baird, president of the hospital association and Dr. Donald D. Bravick, chief of medical staff.

Accreditation Optional
Accreditation for hospitals was started in 1918 by the American College of Surgeons. In 1952 the scope of its support was broadened to include the American College of Physicians. The American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association.

The joint commission is a voluntary, non-profit, cooperative agency whose sole function is to evaluate and accredit hospitals in the United States. Seeking accreditation is optional for each hospital governing board.

In addition to meeting rigorous standards of patient care, Appleton Memorial also was recognized for the excellence of its physical plant and maintenance program.

Model Draft of Shoreland Plan Meets Criteria

The model shoreland zoning ordinance set up by the North-eastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission this fall complies with the guidelines recently sent to the commission by the State Department of Resource Development, William Morris, commission executive director, said today.

"It appears our ordinance follows within the requirements of the state criteria," Morris said. The model ordinance had been set up with the aid of model ordinances from other counties, other states, the University of Wisconsin and early state drafts.

The regional planning commission is assisting its nine-county members in these ordinances, which must be adopted by Jan. 1 according to state law.

'Promote Spirit of Ecumenism' K of C, Masonic Unity Urged

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton Masons and Knights of Columbus were challenged Tuesday night at a joint meeting at Masonic Hall to promote a spirit of ecumenism for the betterment of their community.

It was an historic first dinner leadership in the U.S. in the meeting of the two Appleton fraternal organizations. The services, while noting the Masons in their charity work, were active in aiding the aged, visual-handicapped, mentally ill and time

Urged Unity
Stocking urged the groups to engage in more dialogue for better understanding and unity of purpose. "Let there be no significant community project that the Masons and Knights of Columbus are not behind," he admonished.

Stocking in tracing the origins of Masonry took care in noting that both organizations were dedicated to applying basic principles to everyday living. In applying these principles the Masons have never recommended the lodge should replace the church, he emphasized.

While acknowledging Masonry had its religious aspects, it never was proposed, Stocking said, as a substitute for the member's church, but rather encouraged his support of it.

Snow Cover Heavy Enough For Shoveling

All official forecasts as of noon today were for light snow this afternoon, tonight and Thursday. However, at the rate it was falling, it seemed there was a question of how deep this "light" snow would be.

The snow began sweeping across Wisconsin this morning from west to east. Indications are that it at least will cover the ground, and with a temperature of only 20 as of 12:30 p.m., it will have to be removed by shoveling or snowblowing.

Two cities in the state reached below zero early this morning. Park Falls showed 6 below and Rhinelander 5 below. Other lows were Superior 1 above; Eau Claire and Green Bay 5; Wausau 7; Lone Rock 9; Madison and Appleton 10.

Breakdown Shows Tax Rate Splits

Here is Appleton's finalized 1968 budget levy and tax picture, including a breakdown of increases in the rate over this year:

Probe of Mysterious Death Continues at Fond du Lac

Hear About Mental Illness

Policemen Briefed on Emergency Childbirth

Fox Valley policemen were briefed Tuesday on how to deliver babies and handle mental patients.

The instruction was contained in the third of five sessions comprising the Appleton Police Department's 1967 intensive training program, attended by lawmen from Appleton, Outagamie County, and various area cities and villages.

The first part of Tuesday's program concerned emergency childbirth. The instructor was Dr. George J. Petersen, of Appleton, who illustrated his presentation with a sound-color movie of a Berkeley, Calif., patrolman performing an emergency childbirth in the back seat of a car.

Advices Caution
Dr. Petersen advised the policemen to "keep calm," and explained that the main task was little more than "receiving" the infant. "It's better to do nothing at all than do something wrong," he said.

Dr. Petersen cautioned against "interfering with the natural process" of childbirth. After outlining the birth and delivery process, Dr. Petersen pointed out that the baby's mouth must be cleared of mucus and fluids and the baby must be kept warm. He advised using a back stroke, light slap on the foot, or mouth-to-mouth resuscitation if the baby does not breathe right away.

Dr. Petersen told policemen it is not necessary to cut the umbilical cord immediately. He also briefed the class on how to deal with certain serious conditions, such as breech delivery, strangulation caused by the umbilical cord, and hemorrhaging by the mother. Policemen were told how to meet sanitary standards under the emergency conditions.

Tapes Interviews
Milton Varsos, chief psychologist for the State Department of Health and Social Services, used tape recordings of actual interviews in jails and psychiatric hospitals to emphasize his presentation on how to recognize and handle "abnormal people."

One tape recorded a conversation with a young girl who ran away because she hated her mother. Varsos told a man who slit a 16-year-old girl's throat because he believed, after he saw her watching him on a bus, that she was a

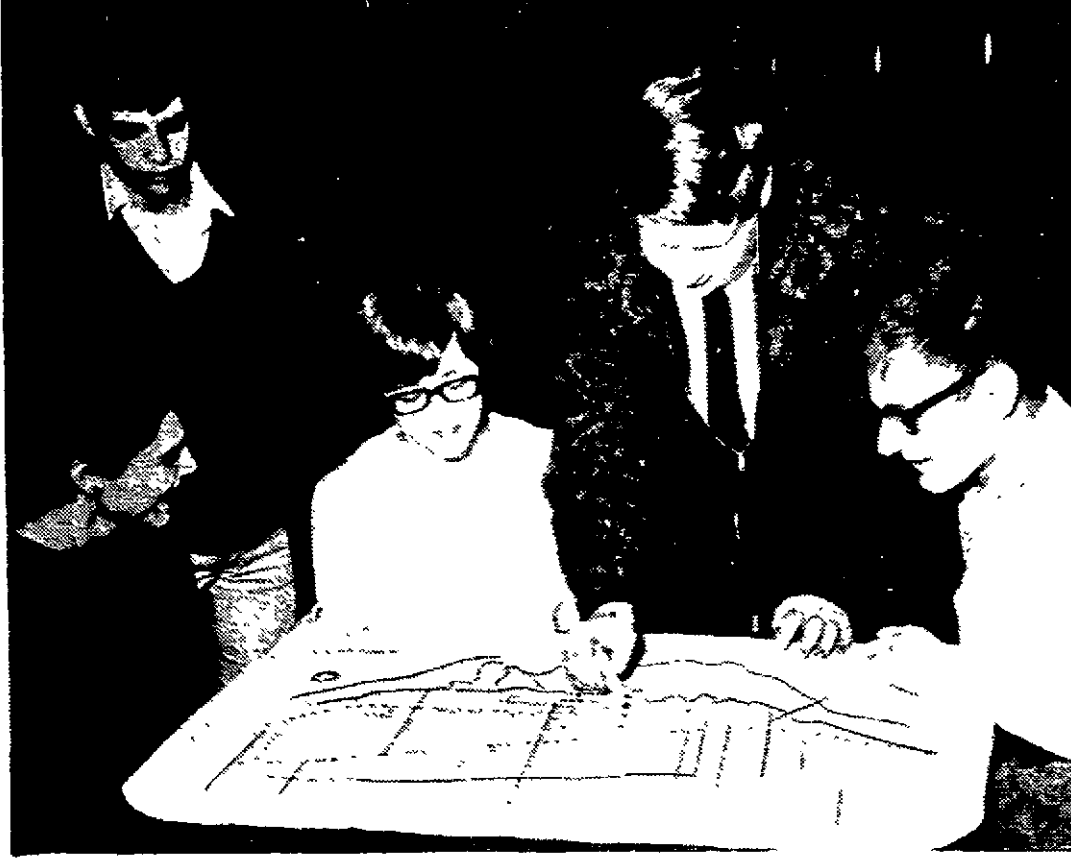

Communist agent who was "batter him."

Varsos outlined the psychotic disorders as being disorientation, delusions of persecution, hallucinations and other emotional disturbances. He said that psychotic disorders "are among the most serious types of problems to deal with." He told lawmen about known psychotic reactions so police could recognize and deal with them accordingly.

Varsos told police that the psychotically disturbed person is unpredictable, and cautioned police to be prepared. He said that such a person is "hyper-alert and hyper-sensitive." The policeman must do his best to make the person feel safer. "He's scared. Your job is to reduce his fear," Varsos said.

"Make it clear to him that you're not there to hurt him, but are trying to help him. Be honest with him," Varsos advised.

Several Outagamie County policemen in the class had to subdue a mental patient last Saturday in a field near Black Creek. One patrolman was hit in the head with a rock thrown by the man.

Sheriff Peppler Seeking 3rd Term

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County Sheriff Marvin R. Peppler, 42, announced his candidacy for reelection Tuesday, 11 and one half months before the Nov. 5, 1968, election.

If he wins, it will be the first time in county history that a sheriff has been elected to third consecutive terms.

The third term was made possible by a change last spring in the state law which previously had allowed only two consecutive terms.

He has been with the sheriff's department since 1950 and was a sergeant for two years prior to city employees have approved contracts.

Final Offer To Treatment Plant Workers

Unionized workers at the Appleton Sewage Treatment plant have received a final offer by the city on a 1968 contract, it was learned today.

The estimated 15 employees in the work unit are scheduled to meet next week and take a vote on whether to ratify the agreement.

Local 73 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, is the official bargaining representative.

James Miller, agent for the union, has held conferences with Personnel Director Jerome Rusch in recent weeks.

The city's offer calls for a blanket wage increase, additional fringe benefits and in one instance a job reclassification.

All other unions representing city employees have approved contracts.

Early Identification Important Industry Must Develop a Firm Policy for Alcoholic Employees

The Milwaukee Council on Alcoholism administrator told about 75 members of the Appleton and Twin City Personnel Associations Tuesday night that companies' supervisory levels are "notorious for concealing the alcoholism problem" from management and with management's unwritten approval, alcoholics were amateur diagnosticians; lost arguments with the alcoholic, a top-notch rationalizer; failed to follow company policy, and tagged some employees with a drinking problem which they actually did not have.

He said many companies have more punitive than corrective approaches and use inconsistent discipline.

Complex Problem
In a questioning period, the administrator said that alcoholism is a complex problem, involving both physical and psychological forces, and is addictive and not a matter of will power.

An alcoholic is as physically sensitive to alcohol as a diabetic is to sugar, he said.

Ray indicated that the 2 million alcoholics in the U.S. react to alcohol in a way not completely understood but that a new approach and continued research are striving for understanding of their problem.

Appleton Police Appeal For Toys to Fix for Children at Christmas
Again this year Appleton policemen are fixing and packaging toys for children of needy families.

And once again, the appeal is out for toys to fill their needs. Persons having toys of any kind that they wish to donate are asked to drop them off at the police station at 125 N. Morrison St., if possible. Otherwise, donors are requested to contact the police department.

More toys are needed this year than during any past Christmas season, police said. Toys not given to local families will be taken to Menominee County for Christmas gifts to needy children of Indian families.

The airport is presently using one lighted runway which runs in a east-west direction, plus two unlighted diagonal runways. The limited use of the new runway, according to the amendment, will be in effect until use of the existing tower has been discontinued and adequate traffic control has been re-established to the satisfaction of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

The temporary traffic pattern previously had been approved by the FAA.

Okay Lease
The board also okayed a lease for Warren Basler for airport land rental. Supv. Hibbard Engler moved to amend part of the contract by deleting a clause which read that the lease would terminate if the hangar was removed.

Basler wants to construct a 120 by 120 foot hangar on about 55,000 square feet of airport land. The lease stipulates he must pay an annual rental of 3 cents per square foot. Estimated cost of the hangar is $120,000.

The lease will have the same five-year negotiation re-opener as Basler's present 20-year lease.

2 Appleton Men Plead Innocent Of Vehicle Theft

Two young Appleton men charged in connection with the theft of a car and a truck Oct. 2 pleaded innocent this morning in Circuit Court.

No trial dates were set for Robert Schussman, 25, 315 E. Washington St., and Leonard Barth, 24, 721 N. Morrison St. The pair was bound over to Circuit Court after preliminary hearings in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell ordered that the cases be consolidated for trial.

Judge Parnell reduced Barth's bond to $500. Schussman is free on $1,500 bond. Both men have court-appointed attorneys.

gamie County Department of Health and Social Services last Monday for his part in the service station theft.

The youth testified that he, Kruse, and a third youth met about 9-30 p.m. Nov. 5 and then went to a teen-age bar in Combined Locks, where they stayed about an hour and a half. They then rode around with Kruse, he said, and went to the Clark Station, where Kruse worked, about 12.30 a.m. The youth said that Kruse entered the station and returned with the money and four cartons of cigarettes.

"Started Traveling"
The trio then "started traveling," he said. Kruse put the money and cigarettes into the glove compartment and drove, but later let someone else drive and he counted the money, the youth said. The trio was picked up near Perryburg, Ohio, for a traffic offense. Authorities said that most of the stolen money was recovered.

Also testifying Tuesday was Wilmer Zimmerman, 5321 Long Court, manager of the station, who said that when he opened the station Nov. 6 he found the money and cigarettes missing and could find no sign of forced entry.

Robert Hermanson, 17, 1601 W. Highland Ave., who works part-time at the station, testified that he worked until midnight Nov. 5 and that Kruse was to open the station in the morning. He said that when he closed, he put the checks and cash in a safe and put the key in a storeroom, behind a locked door.

days before Christmas to prepare them for mailing.

In Appleton it has always been the policy to put the tax bills in the mail a day after Christmas so residents and corporations receive them in time to make payments before the end of the year — and include them in their state and federal income tax statements for the current year.

City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein estimates that from Dec. 27 to Edna Hoevasch on Center Valley Road near Appleton and Impel-collects about $1.5 million in personal and property taxes on Sept. 28.

18,000 Bills

An estimated 18,000 tax bills will have to be prepared and mailed on this year.

Normally, the city would have received notification of its sales tax allocation by Nov. 20.

Schreve said if the announcement is not forthcoming Thursday, he will contact the tax department.

We could find ourselves in a real bind," Schreve remarked. His staff as it is, will be working day and night to get the bills out.

The budget for Appleton, including city, county and state expenditures for the coming year, adds up to $18.7 million and calls for a $10.7 million levy (money to be collected by property taxes).

The tax rate is $64.06 per $1,000 assessed valuation — up $7.84 over this year. Those city residents in the Calumet County sector will have a $61.95 rate, an increase of $7.33.

He also burglarized the cottages of Ernest Schuster and Edna Hoevasch on Center Valley Road near Appleton and Impel-Goretzki pleaded guilty to all 14 counts. He will serve his prison term in the Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay.

Train Hits Section Car Placed on Tracks

An agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad told Appleton police Tuesday night that one of their trains headed for Menasha struck and damaged a railroad section car that apparently had been placed by vandals on tracks under the Memorial Drive bridge.

The section car had been alongside the tracks. The railroad agent theorized that whoever left the unit on the tracks had been riding it.

The commission based its denial of the proposed amendment on the conclusion the area should stay residential in character.

Additional objections and amendments will be heard from other property owners through Friday.

A group of realtors will appear Thursday in an attempt to get more property on Wisconsin Avenue listed for commercial use than the zoning code now permits.

In action today, the commission approved an amendment which would change about 35 lots in the Park Hills subdivision from single to two-family residential.

Foreign Relations Committee Impatient With Rusk Silence

LBJ Might Be Cast as Peacemaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson may be asked to mediate a continuing dispute between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee regarding information on the Vietnam war.

Some members of the panel are growing increasingly impatient over Rusk's rejection of invitations to appear before it and publicly answer questions on the administration's Vietnam policies.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., says he wants to take the controversy directly to the President for a decision.

Formal Protest

His plan calls for having the committee authorize Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to register a formal protest with Johnson over Rusk's refusal to appear at a public session.

Such a motion, prepared for introduction at a committee meeting today, could not be voted on until another session expected Thursday.

A Rusk agreement to appear publicly could head off a protest to the White House, Gore said.

He commented in an interview after a Senate speech in which he complained of Rusk's continuing refusal to agree to discuss Vietnam before the committee with the public and press on hand.

The secretary has said repeatedly a more candid and fruitful exchange of views can be had in private session.

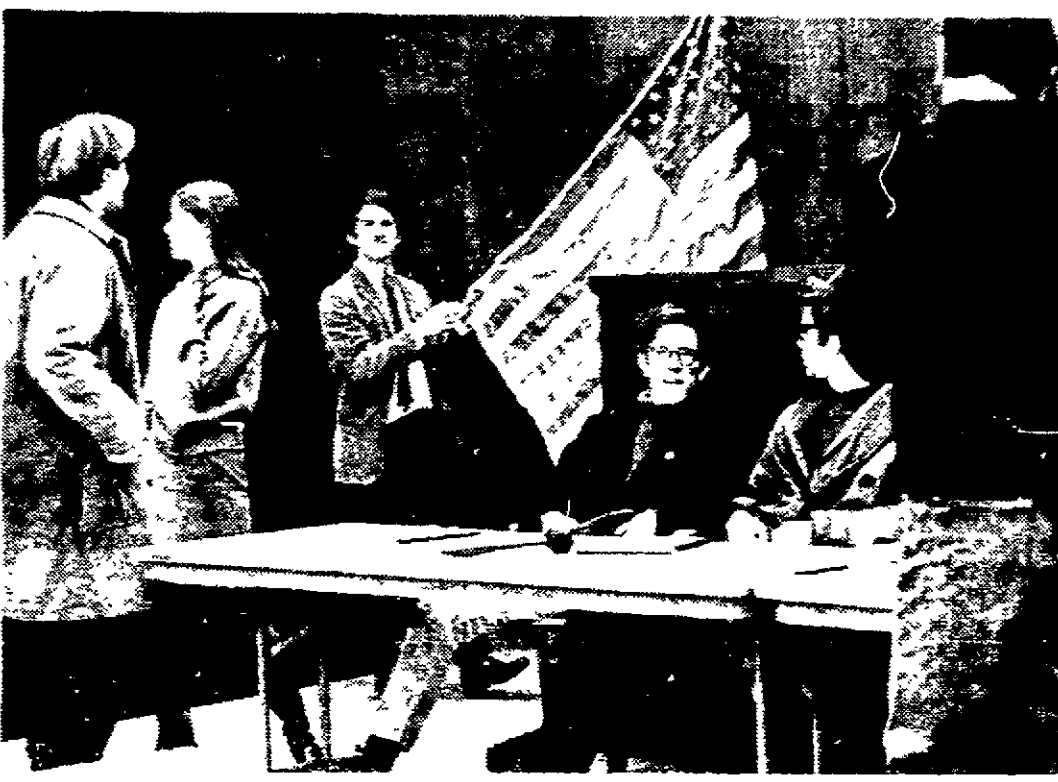

Proposed Questions

But Gore posed a series of questions he said Rusk should be asked to answer in public. They covered goals and national security aspects of the Vietnam military effort.

"How can either the President or the Senate discharge their respective responsibilities to the American people without incisive public examination of these policies and questions?" Gore asked the Senate.

Rusk last appeared before the committee in public on Vietnam in February 1966. Criticism of administration war policies has increased sharply within the Foreign Relations Committee since then.

The panel includes several outspoken opponents of Johnson on Vietnam.

Protest Delays UW Students' Hearing

MADISON (AP) — Heckling students forced postponement Tuesday of a disciplinary hearing for five University of Wisconsin students charged with disorderly conduct.

George Young, law school dean, announced plans for a recess despite catcalls and jeers from student spectators, many of whom blew whistles and rang cowbells.

"If we are unable to proceed... we will have no choice but to adjourn this hearing and go into a closed hearing," Young told nearly 100 students. His warning was met with derisive laughter.

Dow Interviews

The attempt to launch the hearing was made nearly six weeks after the violent Oct. 18 sit-in demonstration against Dow Chemical Co., maker of napalm for the war in Vietnam.

In the disturbance, eight policemen and nearly 70 students were treated for injuries after police were forced to use riot sticks and tear gas to disperse angry students.

The five students called before the three-member faculty committee Tuesday were among 13 who were suspended after the Oct. 18 uprising.

Open Hearing

Their attorney, Percy Julian Jr. of Madison, objected repeatedly to Young's proposal that the hearings be held behind closed doors.

He complained about the police who were present Tuesday to block entrances after the room had become jammed with students. Some students climbed through windows after police closed doorways.

After a recess for lunch, Young met with attorneys for the student protesters and the hearing was postponed until Thursday at 10 a.m. at a site to be announced.

One of the five students at Tuesday's hearing, Robert Cohen, 24, Levittown, Pa., called Young and the other committee members "flunkies" of the administration.

"There is no possibility of a fair trial," Cohen shouted. "This is a real sham. I'm not going to be tried here."

Later, Cohen said he might seek an injunction if Young attempted to hold the hearing behind closed doors.

Parting Unfriendly Aden Ends Status As British Colony

LONDON (AP) — Britain signed an agreement in Geneva today ending 128 years of colonial rule in Aden, but there'll be no British royal presence and no warm handshakes when the Union Jack comes down for the last time in Aden at midnight.

Qahtan Al Ashaabi, leader of the National Liberation Front (NLF) which is taking over the 112,000 square miles of scorching sand in South Arabia, and a British delegation headed by Lord Shackleton came to terms after a grueling 18-hour session that lasted all night.

A joint communique announced that the major issue of British financial aid to the new Republic of South Yemen will be decided in future talks. Britain meanwhile agreed to continue help at the present rate of 60 million pounds—now worth $144 million—a year.

60 Million Pounds

The British want to lower that figure, which was set when Egyptian troops in neighboring Yemen were considered a threat. The Egyptians have left Yemen, but Al Shaabi said 60 million pounds a year is the least Britain can do after "128 years of colonial exploitation."

Al Shaabi and 14 associates flew back to South Arabia for the independence celebrations but the Republic of South Yemen was unofficially born Sunday morning when the Arabs awoke to find the last of the 12,000 British troops had pulled back to their barracks. The last 900 Tommies were flown to a transport offshore today, and the Royal Navy task force of 24 ships was to clear South Arabian waters by dusk.

Britain has not just freed the colony it held for 128 years at the southern entrance to the Red Sea. It has evacuated it altogether.

High Commissioner Sir Humphrey Trevelyan left Tuesday. Unlike other transfers of British colonial power in the last 20 years, no member of the royal family will hand over the instruments of power.

Al Shaabi said no matter what financial commitment the British make, they won't get any land concessions on the peninsula or on the islands at the entrance to the Red Sea. This is bothering Israel since Al Shaabi has promised to block Israeli shipping if he can.

Al Shaabi may have other more pressing matters to occupy him. In Munich, Germany, the president of the neighboring Yemeni republic said Yemen's claim to South Yemen will be realized—peacefully or not.

Royalist Uprising

President Abdel El-Rjani may be talking through his fez. Most observers in the Middle East expect the Yemeni Royalists to overthrow the Republican regime now that the Egyptian troops have withdrawn from Yemen.

Al Shaabi said his government's first acts would be to apply for membership in the Arab League and the United Nations.

The National Liberation Front, whose soldiers battled British troops as well as the rival nationalist group FLOSY, or the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, takes over a country of 112,000 miles of mostly scorching sand.

The British first moved into Aden in 1839 to use it as a coaling station en route to India. Then it had about 500 people; now it has about 250,000 and the neighboring feudal sheikdoms have about 750,000 more.

South Yemen has no oil or other appreciable riches. Its primary income came from servicing British troops and ships, and from tourists who stopped over on their way somewhere else.

Meat Checks Expanded by McNamara Successor Must Assert Authority From Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has pushed through a bill that would make some 15,000 U.S. meat plants adhere to federal purity standards and even a major opponent concedes the measure seems assured of House acceptance.

Chairman W. R. Poage of the House Agriculture Committee said Tuesday following the Senate's 89-2 passage of the meat inspection bill.

"This House is going to make a showing that they're for clean meat which in their opinion means federally inspected meat."

Poage said he remains opposed to the measure, which goes far beyond a House version approved earlier. But another Texan who is the main sponsor of the House bill said he would push for acceptance of the Senate measure.

Democratic Rep. Graham Purcell said he hoped a quick House okay would avoid publicity on current meat inspection practices which he said has hurt cattle prices.

The differences between the two bills must be ironed out in a Senate-House conference committee.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next secretary of defense will have to establish his authority early.

The armed services, tamed by McNamara, are likely to test his successor's mettle.

The new Pentagon chief also may have to face a Congress bent on showing him it is boss. For nearly seven years, Congress has smarted under what McNamara's arrogance and "know-it-all" attitude.

The next defense chief also will inherit vexing problems from McNamara, among them the Vietnam war and the still troubled F111 fighter plane project, once known as the TFX.

McNamara also will leave behind him a fundamental budget reform which is his monument. That budget approach, which he installed and enforced on the services in 1961, probably will continue to operate to suppress separate decisions, involving billions of dollars, in personal item-by-item reviews of military budget proposals each year.

It is this budget reform, among others, that McNamara has claimed is "driven into the bedrock" of the huge military establishment and will remain after him.

He also brought about fundamental alterations in basic national defense strategy, switching from reliance on massive nuclear retaliation to a more flexible ability to meet Communist threats at every level of war, from insurgency on up.

McNamara's philosophy, as he spelled it out to The Associated Press some years ago, was to establish a single final authority over the enormously complex defense establishment.

Personal Decisions

"Whoever is head of the department should run it," McNamara said. "The head of any organization ought to place himself in position to make decisions and to stand behind with greater effectiveness and discipline than any of the others."

McNamara, working 12-hour ers.

State High Court Reverses Rulings

Outagamie, Winnebago County Accident Decisions Overturned

MADISON — The Wisconsin Supreme Court Tuesday reversed accident case decisions rendered by Outagamie County Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell and Winnebago County Circuit Court Judge Arnold J. Cane.

The high court decisions will result in a new trial in an automobile collision case handled by Parnell and the dismissal and settlement of the case dealt with by Cane.

The case handled by Parnell concerned the collision of a car driven by Sandra Seal with one driven by Lawrence Gage, as Mrs. Seal swung into the oncoming traffic lane as she passed a harvesting machine owned by the Stokely-Van Camp Co. on Mrs. Seal and her insurance company.

It also dismissed her insurance company's complaints against the farm firm and its insurers.

Justice Leo Hanley, writing the court's unanimous opinion, ordered a new trial to deal with the questions raised between the insurance companies over the possibility of the emergency situation and the possible responsibility of the Stokely-Van Camp company in the accident.

The reversal does not affect the jury award to Gage for his injuries.

Not Usable

In the Cane decision, the high court determined that a car with actually presented by the harvester, Mrs. Seal would have though possibly barely operable — engine probably could not be and the air cleaner and the used on a highway.

An accident resulting in serious burns to a would-be passenger of the car, therefore, was not covered by an automobile liability insurance policy.

The company had appealed a denial by Cane of an attempt by the insurance firm to be dropped from the suit because its insurance covered only the use of a motor vehicle including operation, management and control.

The accident took place in an Oshkosh garage owned by Joseph Langkau, during a time in which the car's hood was up.

Gas Ignites

A backfire resulted, igniting the remaining gasoline in the cup, which Bork spontaneously threw over his shoulder.

The cup and the burning gasoline struck David L. Graf, who had come to the garage to travel to a swimming area with the two youths in the repaired car.

The decision, prepared by Justice Bruce Beilfuss, held that the car could not reasonably be considered to be capable of normal use. The reason for attempting to start the car was to complete the repairs, and not to use it.

Therefore, due to a specific clause in the contract exempting the firm from responsibility in all instances other than use, operation and control of the car, Bloechl's insurance company does not have to become a party to the suit resulting from the injuries, the high court ruled in overturning Cane's earlier decision.

Johnson reported that he arrived at work Monday and found a television set on the porch.

He said several weeks ago a woman hinted that he might find a television set at his door before long. But Johnson said he doesn't know the woman and hasn't seen her since she bought a cup of coffee at his restaurant weeks ago.

Meanwhile, police are holding the set to see if anyone claims it. If no one puts in a claim, police said, the set will go to Johnson.

Housekeeping Lessons

To Be Given in Slums
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An antipoverty group hopes to improve slum conditions in South Philadelphia by teaching tenants how to clean, scrub and care for their homes.

Under the plan by the group, known as the Community Action Council, city housing aides will instruct tenants how to meet housing code requirements that occupants keep their dwelling units, cooking and plumbing facilities clean and sanitary.

About 600 tenants who wound up before magistrates last year said they were unaware that they were violating these housing code requirements.

Peter Cremins, city housing chief, said, "sometimes a tenant either isn't able or doesn't know the principles of how to keep a house clean."

Mayor Threatened

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Mayor Tom Currigan's life was threatened in a crudely printed, unsigned letter mailed in Denver, an aide reported Tuesday.

The letter, delivered to Currigan Monday, has been turned over to the FBI.
The letter indicated displeasure with Currigan's efforts for fair housing. It accused him of having "gone too far," and closed by saying, "you're going to get a bullet in your head."

'Movie Theme Team' at Oshkosh

Musical Cooks Ferrante and Teicher Serve Lots of Dessert, Little Meat

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Prior to their Civic Auditorium Town and Gown concert here Tuesday night, pop pianists Ferrante and Teicher promised the program would resemble a menu. Using such an analogy, their slate can be said to have had an abundance of light, fluffy desserts, but for complete satisfaction, a listener would best have been a musical vegetarian, because there was very little meat.

Ferrante and Teicher do not bill themselves as "serious" artists; in fact, there was quite a bit of corn on the menu and more than the usual amount of play a few film pieces. They visual and audio trickery one expects in a pop concert of this sort.

Although Ferrante and Teicher can be labeled, ambiguously, as "good pianists," it is difficult to rationalize their performance as an analogy, especially after a stage barely seven months ago. But, as I said, this was a pop concert and as such does not require the absolutely precise technical mastery over instruments that a recital does.

The entire light aura of the concert hinted of a more casual setting than Town and Gown.

As a technician, Ferrante is the better of the two. Teicher's tendency to be choppy and lack authority on multi-noted fast passages detracted from the sound the pair was attempting to achieve. In the Foster melody and Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," this fault was most obvious.

Also, the duo-pianists occasionally had difficulty maintaining proper tempo. This caused a few unpleasant moments, especially in the early moments of the concert, during Richard Rodgers' "Slaughter on 10th Avenue."

Prior to the movie theme medley, they performed three of their better efforts, making this section of the first half the best of the evening. Those were "Clare de Lune," "The Work Song" and "What Now My Love."

For those sitting up close, like this reviewer, the use of a speaker system resulted in a larger than life sound that was unnatural at first but then became fairly pleasing. But at least one report from the rear of the auditorium indicated the

He's Still No. 2; He'll Have to Try Harder

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — John Norman, holder of the No. 2 Polk County license tag, took temporary residence in the courthouse Monday to stake his claim to a low number when new tags go on sale Dec. 1.

Norman was not first in line, however. Bert A. Murray, holder of the current No. 1 tag, had already been there nine days.

It may appear snobbish to criticize Ferrante and Teicher on the grounds that they presented a "pop concert," and that is not the basis for complaint. Rather, the grating aspect of their program lies in the fact that the popular repertoire was presented with a minimum of imagination and a maximum of predictability. Even the overflow audience, part of which was seated on stage, was never ignited to the degree Oshkosh audiences have been in the past.

But, I suspect, the event made money for Town and Gown. For my tastes, that money could be of gold, and increase of the prime interest rate to 4½ per cent by the Federal Reserve Bank.

Investors Open Convention Amid Financial Turmoil

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Against the background of devaluation of the British pound, a boost in the U.S. prime interest rate and a threat against the American dollar, the Investment Bankers Association of America opens its annual convention today.

Manuel F. Cohen, chairman of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, speaks at the opening session. About 1,200 persons were expected.

Other speakers, scheduled Thursday and Friday, include Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation.

Among topics to be discussed at the three-day meeting are the recent British devaluation, the assault abroad against the price of gold, and increase of the prime interest rate to 4½ per cent by the Federal Reserve Bank.

Baked Lamb Chops with Onion Sauce

Sweet-Sour Chicken with Almonds

Pauper's Pizza

Quick 'n' Easy

By Lillian Mackesy
Post-Crescent Food Editor

The recipes today are for busybodies. And just who isn't these days now that Thanksgiving is over and Christmas is speeding on its way?

There always seem to be a million things to do this time of year, what with Christmas baking, the children's Christmas programs and no time at all before the holiday social season gets underway. It's a trick just to keep even with the household, family activities and the meals.

Most women need a file of handy, quick, easy yet nutritious menus for the family in times such as these. A good dinner must satisfy the men in the family, yet not take all day to prepare. Time's a-wastin' and there are cards to write, holiday dishes to prepare and last-minute gifts to buy.

What the homemaker needs is a good group of recipes that are easy to fix on the spot after a late arrival home or foods which may be prepared ahead of time and stashed away in freezer or refrigerator.

The most important thing to remember is that foods made in a hurry need not be dull nor unappetizing. The recipes today prove this.

For instance, consider serving loin lamb chops. They are meaty and thick, at their best right now and just right for broiling. For a quick sauce that has a dash of imagination, not to mention a gay taste, chop a fresh onion in small, even pieces. Sauté in butter until brown, then add a touch of a good wine and a handful of chopped parsley.

For the tired budget, we suggest a food that usually is a delight to the children. Called Pauper's Pizza, this supper has a hearty flavor combination of bean with bacon soup, hot dogs, cheese and seasonings.

More important, ladies, it's a satisfying main dish that provides eight large servings for just $1.48 total, which figures out to about 19 cents per serving.

Complete the meal with a fresh fruit salad or whole fruits such as the rosy Rome Beauties now in the markets or a Red or Golden Delicious apple.

For another easy dessert that's delicious, buy a supply (or make) of pastry shells or meringues all ready to be filled.

A quick skillet dish that borrows its style from true Oriental tradition is the Sweet-Sour Chicken with Almonds. Chicken also is one of the best food buys at the moment, an added incentive.

Add to these a quick but delicious steak sandwich, easy Pizza Franks and a ham skillet dish that takes but 10 short minutes to make and you'll surely be prepared for a busy holiday.

BROILED LAMB CHOPS WITH ONION SAUCE

4 loin lamb chops,
1-inch thick

1½ cups chopped onions

¼ cup butter or margarine

¾ cup white wine

1 teaspoon salt

¼ cup chopped parsley

Broil lamb chops three to four inches from source of heat five to seven minutes per side or until desired degree of doneness. Sauté onions in butter until golden. Add wine and salt; bring to boil and simmer five minutes. Add parsley and serve over broiled lamb chops.

SWEET SOUR CHICKEN WITH ALMONDS

2 large chicken breasts

1 cup diagonally sliced celery

1 medium onion,
thinly sliced

2 tablespoons butter

1 can (8-oz.) pineapple tidbits

1 envelope Chicken
Gravy Mix

1 tablespoon vinegar

¼ cup toasted slivered

almonds
Hot boiled rice

Remove raw chicken from bones; cut into bite-sized pieces. Brown chicken, celery, and onion slightly in butter.

Drain juice from pineapple saving both juice and chunks. Add enough water to pineapple juice to make one cup. Add juice, pineapple chunks, chicken gravy mix, and vinegar to chicken. Bring to a boil, stirring. Cover and simmer five minutes. Serve, sprinkled with almonds, with hot boiled rice. Recipe makes four servings.

CHINESE ALMOND COOKIES

2½ cups sifted
all-purpose flour

¾ cup sugar

1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
1½ teaspoons almond extract
30 whole blanched almonds
1 egg yolk, beaten

Sift flour with sugar, baking powder, and salt into a medium-sized bowl. Using pastry blender or two knives, cut in butter until mixture resembles corn meal. Beat egg with water and almond extract. Add to flour mixture, mixing with fork until dough leaves side of bowl. On lightly floured surface, knead dough until smooth. Chill one hour.

Price Hike Seen as Holiday Foods Arrive

Foods for Christmas and New Year's good. Much of the fruit is Year preparation are in abundance in area stores, but with prices a bit higher than a year ago.

There's an excellent variety and quality of dried fruits and fresh nuts for fruit cake baking. Noted here are several new ways of packaging, making it possible for the homemaker to make better choices of the kinds of dried (sugared or plain) fruits others can't abide the stuff.

Short fruit crops this past summer are causing price hikes on canned products. Take advantage of any canned fruit features that are in the markets now for prices are expected to reach a record high later.

Frozen Orange Juice
Already price hikes have taken place. A comparison of prices of canned pears shows a 6 cents a can increase since six weeks ago. Frozen orange juice concentrate is one of the better fruit buys because stocks are in good supply.

Fresh citrus fruit supplies are lighter than a year ago but still above average. Navel oranges are becoming more plentiful as the season progresses. Tangerines and tangelos offer variety.

Another variety fruit that is seasonal now is the pomegranate. This large round fruit offers bright red juicy seeds to add a spicy, tart flavor to salads or fruit compotes.

Hawaiian pineapple is available but higher than a year ago. The crop was short due to lack of rain. Quality of that available

Fresh Fruits

Apples continue reasonable; bananas may be a feature and grapes show little price change. Winter pears — Anjou, Bosc, and Comice — replace Bartlett's in the market. These winter pears are most plentiful during December and January.

For a different vegetable to lend new interest try the artichoke. The cone shaped vegetable of overlapping green leaf scales is best cooked in boiling water. Cook it covered for 25 minutes. Pull off the leaves and dip into melted butter.

The fall potato crop was above that of 1966 so attractive prices continue. Sweet potatoes are moderate. A smaller than average crop makes for more expensive carrots, celery and lettuce this month. Cabbage and onions remain economical vegetables.

Pork is considered reasonably priced and Boston butt, pork steak, chops and ham are possible features. Prices will stay about the same through the rest of the year. Marketings are about at last year's level.

Wholesale beef prices went up slightly these past few days but this may not show in retail prices. Look for some steak specials and steady prices on other cuts through December.

Imaginative Dash

If onions begin to sprout, they should be immediately wrapped in aluminum foil and placed in the refrigerator. They will keep this way until you use them. Always make sure that they are tightly wrapped, so their odor won't escape and ruin the foods in the refrigerator.

Contain Chemicals

Anyone working with farm chemicals should avoid contaminating family and pets by taking a hot, sudsy shower immediately after use. His clothing should be stored in a special, closed container for separate washing.

For the first time these calorie-reduced products sell for about the same price as their packed-in-syrup counterparts. No longer at "special" counters, these new canned foods take their place as they should right along side the in-syrup packs.

The labels tell the story, providing full information on the contents of the can, nutrient and calorie facts which makes it easy for the weightwatcher to determine the number of calories per serving.

Typical of the glamorous desserts that can be prepared for the weight watcher and the rest of the family with these low calorie fruits is Apricot Mousse. It's light and airy and tastefully flavored with low calorie apricot halves which are pureed in a blender.

Additional drained low calorie apricot halves trim the molded mousse. Here's the recipe.

APRICOT MOUSSE

- 2 cans (1 pound each) Low Calorie Apricot Halves
- 1/2 teaspoon almond flavoring
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- Water
- 1/2 cup dry milk solids
- 1/2 teaspoon liquid artificial sweetener
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice

Drain apricots, reserving liquid. Puree apricots in blender, adding almond flavoring.

Soften one envelope unflavored gelatin in half-cup fruit liquid. Chill three-quarters cup fruit liquid in freezer. To remaining fruit liquid, add enough water to make one cup. Bring this liquid to a boil. Add to softened gelatin, stirring until gelatin is completely dissolved. Chill to the consistency of unbeaten egg whites, then fold into pureed apricot mixture.

Meantime, whip dry milk solids according to package directions, using the chilled three-fourths cup fruit liquid in place of water called for on package.

When soft peaks have formed (about three or four minutes of beating) add liquid sweetener and lemon juice. Continue beating until mixture holds in stiff peaks. Fold into apricot mixture and turn into six-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish, if desired, with additional drained Low Calorie Apricot Halves.

Carpet Often-Used Rooms For Quiet, Warm Home

Carpeting in the bathroom and kitchen may save wear and tear on your legs and feet, according to Jane Febock, home furnishings specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Because it's neither too soft or too hard, you become less tired after hours of standing.

This type of floor covering helps reduce breakage of glass dishes and bottles. Because it's softer than tile, carpeting absorbs most of the shock of a falling glass object. It also reduces the possibility of one of your family slipping, and cushions falls if they do occur.

Factors to consider when you're buying carpeting are the fiber, color, resiliency and backing. Wool is considered to wear best among the natural fibers and nylon is the strongest of the man-made fibers. Nylon and olefin are considered quite tough and resistant to abrasion.

The density of the pile helps in determining wearability. Usually the more dense the pile the longer the carpet will last. And, it adds warmth and luxury to these often-used rooms in your home. The life of your carpet depends on the fiber, construction, the pattern, of flow of traffic and the nature of the soil which is tracked over it.

The life of your carpet depends on the fiber, construction, the pattern, of flow of traffic and the nature of the soil which is tracked over it.

When you're buying carpeting, consider the fiber, color, resiliency and backing. Wool is considered to wear best among the natural fibers and nylon is the strongest of the man-made fibers. Nylon and olefin are considered quite tough and resistant to abrasion.

Miniature Tree

Norfolk Island Pine is really another name for miniature indoor Christmas tree. This sturdy little houseplant bears an astonishing resemblance to a Christmas tree, and the larger specimens have branches that are actually strong enough to support small presents and decorations. If space is limited in your house or apartment this Christmas, consider the charm of this living table tree. It will beautify your surroundings for years to come.

A Lovelier You

Restore Hands

Most feminine hands meet solution to your own battle with mishaps in the line of duty.

Are stains under the nails your problem? To remove discolorations clean under nail tips with a cotton swab dipped in cuticle remover. Follow with a sudsy brush-scrub and then, using a fresh swab, underline nails with a film of hand lotion. As a stain preventative run nails over damp bar soap before tackling grimy jobs.

Does callus form on your writing finger — the middle finger where the pen rests? Both callus and ragged cuticle result from work that calls for constant writing by hand. The trouble responds to applications of cuticle oil several times daily. To protect the area from further friction cover it with a strip of cellophane mending tape while you work.

Are you the victim of chipped polish? Discourage chipping by keeping the nails filed in medium-short ovals, and by applying polish sealer every other night between manicures.

Is your hand complexion discolored from rough work? A combination of waterproof work gloves, silicone hand lotion and a skin bleach satnizes the hand complexion.

Do you have a hand problem? Send today for Lovelier Hands, a booklet that covers every step in a quest for hand beauty. It tells how to keep the skin and nails

Christmas Decorations Abound With Tradition

It's Christmas time again! The spirit of this most joyful season is seen in homes aglow with light and festive with decorations.

It means a warm renewal of family ties and close friendships. Best of all, it is reflected by the faces of children, excited and happy, full of awe and wonder as they hear Christmas legends and see the sparkling array of decorations.

Since that holy night when angels sang and wise men traveled far to behold the miracle of the first Christmas, scores of legends have developed as to the origins of many great customs observed during the season.

Although many traditions are now lost in time, there are other Christmas customs that have been recorded for posterity.

'Gold' In Toe

One of them is the story of the first Christmas stocking, a story associated with the real St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop known for his many acts of kindness. Because of his desire to give a gift anonymously to help the daughters of a poor merchant, he thrust a bag of gold down the chimney, where it landed in a stocking hung up to dry. That is the reason for today's custom of placing an orange — "gold" — into the toe of a Christmas stocking.

It has been said that there was no candle to light the stable at Bethlehem. But from time immemorial tapers have been placed in windows to light the way for the Christ Child. Anyone who came to the door was invited to enter as there were those who believed He would appear, concealing his identity, to learn the extent of their kindness. Candles contribute not only to the feeling of reverence but play an important role in our holiday decorations.

Christmas wreaths may be traced to the customs of Advent season, the four Sundays before Christmas, a period of preparation for the coming of the Christ Child. The Advent wreath is made of evergreen branches intertwined with red ribbon. Four candles are affixed to the wreath. One is lit at dusk on the first Sunday of Advent, two the following Sunday, three the next Sunday, and four on the last Sunday before Christmas. The wreath may be placed on a door, hung along creases and seams may over a mantel, or set on a table.

Most Cherished The Christmas tree, most cherished of all the nation's Yuletide customs, was first trimmed with ornaments of the durable press trousers and other time and lighted in America by a few homesick Hessian soldiers in the year 1776 to relieve their loneliness. The tradition of the Christmas tree developed rapidly through the country from Germany, through Europe and on to America, the spirit of Christmas was reflected in the lights and gay decorations of the tree.

Merrie Olde England was the first to celebrate the traditional "open house" at Christmas. It dates back to the days of the Saxons, when the lords invited nobility and peasant alike to share in the feasting and rejoicing at their magnificent halls, with Yule logs burning in the great fireplaces. The scent of fresh holly, evergreen and mistletoe mingled with the aroma of baking cakes with chopped citron, plum puddings, and mince pies.

A home in traditional Christmas attire brings glowing delight to youngsters and a sense of warmth and well-being to all who enter to participate in the Yuletide spirit of the surroundings, a joyous heritage from the past.

Ceremony Performed

LEEMAN — Miss Barbara Jean Thuede and Eddie W. Boody were married in an 8 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Trinity United Church of Christ, Nichols. Performing the double ring rite was the Rev. Robert Hamilton.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thuede, route 1, Shiocton. Mr. Boody is the son of Mrs. Joseph Boody, route 1, Shiocton, and the late Mr. Boody.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Allen, route 1, Shiocton, were honor attendants for the couple. Guests were seated by Jack Heideman and Kenneth Fields.

A reception was held at Hop's Retreat, Leeman.

Mr. Boody is employed at the Neenah Foundry Co. The newlyweds will reside at route 1, Shiocton.

Avoid Light Crease

Because creases in durable press garments are so sharp, and four on the last Sunday there is little "give" during the holiday season, the dye may be placed on a door, hung along creases and seams may over a mantel, or set on a table.

This so-called "frosting" is especially noticeable on darker garments. It is advisable to turn dark trousers and other time and lighted in America by a few homesick Hessian soldiers in the year 1776 to relieve their loneliness. The tradition of the Christmas tree developed rapidly through the country from Germany, through Europe and on to America, the spirit of Christmas was reflected in the lights and gay decorations of the tree.

BY ANN LANDERS three years and I'm sick and tired of waiting. Please tell me why a woman hang on I'm right in wanting to get it to a man who doesn't want her? settled now. — RSVP

Dear R: Your story is such a tired one I'm almost ashamed to print it. You are not only wrong but stupid if you think a talk with Greg's wife will settle anything. Your problem is not with her — it's with him. Dummy. Greg doesn't want to marry you — and why should he? He has everything just the way he wants it — the respectable facade provided by a home and children plus a side dish for entertainment. This arrangement is a lot neater and much chaper for him than a divorce.

I've written registered letters to his wife. I've sent her telegrams. No response. I've called her on the telephone and her stock answer is: "I have nothing to say to you. Talk to Greg." Then she hangs up. She is a selfish, unfeeling woman who is clinging to the man I love just because she doesn't want us to be happy. Greg has told me repeatedly that he will marry me when the time is right.

Ann, I want to go to her home and talk to her in person. Then she will have to listen to me. I've been going with Greg for

I am writing to ask you to please tell young, unmarried people to save some of their paycheck every week. My husband is a hard worker but we can't put away a dime on account of these boys. Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have two good-looking sons. They are 20 and 22 years of age. Both boys have fine jobs. They live at home, pay no room and board, drive new cars, and they dress like English royalty with white shirts and cuff links. The incoming phone calls from the girls run me crazy. I feel like an answering service.

"... while visions of sugarplums dance in their heads..." why don't you whip up a batch?

Sugarplums

Butter candies you make in minutes without cooking.

Some night before Christmas, when the children are nestled all snug in their beds, dash away to the kitchen and whip up a batch of easy, no-cook Sugarplums.

- | | | |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|-------------------|
| 1/2 cup (1 stick) Land O'Lakes Butter | 5 cups confectioners' sugar, unsifted | |
| 1/4 cup whipping cream | 1 teaspoon vanilla | |
| Decorations as desired | | Yield: 1 1/2 lbs. |

Speak not a word, but head straight to your work. Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar slowly; continue beating until light and crumbly. Add cream and vanilla. Beat until completely blended. Shape and decorate as desired. Store in a cool place.

But let us exclaim, as we fade out of sight, be sure you use only Land O'Lakes Butter, churned fresh every day (including Christmas!) from only the freshest sweet cream.

Sugarplums variations are inside each carton.

Credit Rating Would Help Man Trying to Cash Checks

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management
Dear Miss Feeley:

I am retired and for the past 15 years have paid for everything by cash or check. I have no charge accounts and no driver's license — so the downtown stores refuse to take my checks.

What can I use for identification?

I would like to know how to fill out a credit application and not be refused. Who are the best people to give as references? active credit in good standing. While a driver's license is a Doctors, real estate owners, business people? I have a checking account and a savings account in a local bank. In all the years I was in business none of these problems came up. M.N., Chicago

Dear M.N.:

Come on, now, don't you know that you can't tell just by looking at a man whether his check will bounce? I'll bet you didn't operate on such a Pollyanna basis when you were in business. The people you preferred to trust were the ones with is and he good for the money? people to give as references? active credit in good standing. While a driver's license is a Doctors, real estate owners, it's not the only one. This credit man says that credit cards, other store charge cards, and even membership cards from some organizations help establish identity. “But don't pull out your Social Security number,” he adds. “That's worthless for this purpose.” If the purchase you want to make is a substantial one — say a $100 item — store personnel will go to the trouble of checking with your bank on the phone at the time provided it isn't Saturday. Why not apply for a 30-day charge account at one or two stores? The type of references you list are most acceptable — and you can add “attorneys.” With their names, plus the name of your bank, your ability to pay can certainly be established. In fact, you might go one step further and give the name of an officer of your bank with whom you've established contact. Remember, though, whether you are just getting started on a business career or if you're a retired person who wishes the convenience of not always paying in cash, the modest charge account will serve you best. Costly installment buying can so easily get out of hand.

Apple Uses to Increase As Production Levels Rise

Production of apples is moving processed apple products along upward and shows no indication with the fresh varieties of a turnaround in the next 10 years. Today, processing takes about 10 percent of the apple crop. Products such as cider, applesauce, canned apples, and frozen apples, dehydrated apples and other items.

Recent surveys in leading apple states indicate that 40 percent of the apple crop will have cent of their apple trees are less than 10 years old. As these products with new processes young trees reach bearing age, such as explosive puffing, freeze-drying and vacuum drying.

New Packages The bushel basket is becoming a thing of the past with the bulk of the fresh apple harvest packed in plastic bags, shrink-film overwrapped trays and bushel cardboard cartons. These newer packages give more protection to the fruit with less chance of bruising.

In 1965 plastic bags accounted for 60 percent of the apples sold; tray packs, 18 percent; shrink-film overwraps, 8 percent; and bulk, 17 percent, points out Mrs. Stare.

Prime quality apples are already being placed in controlled atmosphere (CA) storage to provide October-fresh apples in May. Most McIntosh and Jonathan apples available after January are from CA storage.

Airtight Storage After picking, apples are placed in a sealed airtight storage room that has controlled temperature (31-33 degrees) and atmospheric conditions (high carbon dioxide and low oxygen content).

When the normal supply of apples from regular cold storage dwindles, these controlled atmosphere apples are taken from storage. You may pay a little more for them due to added storage and handling costs, Mrs. Stare says, but you continue to get top quality.

Opening Bid Gives A Problem

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

In a survey recently conducted by The Bridge World an overwhelming majority of American experts favored the "weak two-bid." This bid, promising a strong six-card suit in a hand not quite worth a normal bid of one, is illustrated today.

San Antonio expert Robert Wolff opened two spades with the East hand during the Team Selection Tournament in Atlantic City, N.J., a few weeks ago. The bid indicated a favorable opening lead and warned West not to compete vigorously since East could not be counted on for a normal opening bid.

The weak two-bid often traps the opponents. If their only game is in notrump, it may be difficult for either opponent to bid notrump for lack of a sure stopper in the suit of the opening bid.

Against most opponents Wolff would have enjoyed a huge success with this hand. Neither opponent had a spade stopper. How did he do it?

Worked Out Answer In this case Wolff ran up against New York expert Edgar Kaplan, publisher of The Bridge World, and Philadelphia stockbroker Norman Kay. We have worked out a solution to this problem. Kay's bid of three spades saved Kaplan to bid notrump. He had a partial stopper in spades to a sure stopper in the suit of the opening bid.

Breaking Into Male World Just Natural

Cambridge Union's First Woman President Unimpressed by Barrier

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — "I don't regard this as a breakthrough or a victory for the emancipation of women. I look upon it as a natural development."

Ann Mallalieu was speaking. The blue-eyed 21-year-old with long, blonde hair is the first woman president of the Cambridge Union, the university debating society which is 152 years old.

Alongside the Stock Exchange, the Jockey Club and the Oxford University Debating Society, the union was one of the last bastions of male exclusiveness in Britain.

But Miss Mallalieu broke the defenses when she took her place at the head of the smoked leather, Victorian debating chamber of the Union for her inaugural debate.

Quips of "Mr. President, Madam" and "Your Eminence" left her as quietly unmoved as the realization of the distinction she has gained.

"I see myself just as the 44th president—or whatever it is—not as the first woman to hold the position," she said.

Forty-three former Union presidents have appeared in the tiny type of reference books to the famous since 1919. Most aimed for careers in law, Parliament, journalism, broadcasting and the professions.

Twenty-five of them gathered in the debating chamber to greet Miss Mallalieu to her new job. All were enthusiastically in favor of a woman in the "hot seat."

Miss Mallalieu, daughter of Board of Trade Minister of me. The people who really matter to me are the ones who know her Cambridge career by plunging into the headlines. She turned down an offer to be beauty queen in a college fundraising procession.

"It meant I had to sit on a truck wearing a sash around my dress," she recalled. "It just wasn't me."

Almost immediately she was elected "Girl of the Week" by Varsity, the university newspaper.

Marked for Success

Suzy Menkes—the first woman editor of Varsity—remembered: "She was marked out for success from the very beginning. She's very pretty, very dynamic and very single-minded."

Miss Mallalieu started on her road to the head of the debating chamber as a down-bench Union member.

"I was abysmal in debates at first," she said. "It was rather overpowering. But I was given every encouragement by the men—perhaps because there were not many women joining then."

The helpful atmosphere clouded when she was elected to the Union Committee.

"Then people began to ask what on earth a woman was doing on the committee. They began to work against me. One only gets through them on ability."

She won the president's chair by a vote of 190 to 104 for her opponent, 22-year-old history student Robert Jarman.

He said: "I stood against her because I did not think a woman should be president. It's against Cambridge tradition."

Miss Mallalieu feels women should fight to win acceptance of their ability at the highest levels of their professions.

But she is not one to chain herself to railings or to jump under race horses to draw attention to equal rights.

"The militant approach to defeat prejudice is out of date and annoys people. I have a great respect for the suffragettes but I think that is an outdated attitude which most people now regard with annoyance or as a joke. Strong feminism is outdated."

"There is a conflict between being acceptable and being feminine and attractive. People think that if you are one you can't be the other."

Remains Feminine

Miss Mallalieu is conscious of her femininity when she presides over debates, interceding and guiding as biologists banter with biochemists, scientists snarl at linguists and historians heckle politicians.

She abandons her miniskirts in the chamber because she sits on a tall, upright chair. "Sheer necessity," she says. "I shall have to find a stock of long dresses if I'm going to wear a different one every debate."

She talks philosophically of the sharp increase in membership of the union since she became president. Normally 40 per cent of undergraduates—about 3,000 people—belong to the Union. This year the figure may be 60 per cent.

"I suppose there are a lot of people who get under your skin. It doesn't really matter to me. The people who really matter to me are the ones who know me well."

She sees definite advantages to being a woman in a man's world.

"I come in for a large share of snide jabs in debate and I have to deal with these. I can always ring my little bell for silence. But as a woman I think I am more liable to be listened to if I have to intercede."

Miss Mallalieu sees the presidency as a useful starting point for a career. "You meet lots of interesting people."

She intends to pursue her career in law, and later, perhaps, politics—to the exclusion of marriage.

"I don't want to get married for at least 10 years. But if the right man came along, and we wanted to marry, we would."

"But I think that all the time I'd be wondering about the things I'd missed and hadn't done and would probably take it out on the family. I don't want to give up anything."

Medical Center Lures Two Doctors to Town

WEST UNION, W. Va. (AP)

Residents of this Doddridge County community wanted to attract a doctor to their town, so they chipped in and built a $50,000 medical center.

They got not one but two doctors, and a nurse in the bargain.

Dr. Frederica Lehmann, a pediatrician and former faculty member at the Alabama Medical School, and Dr. Sutcharit Bhamornbutr, a native of Thailand, have both agreed to practice medicine here.

Dr. Bhamornbutr comes with a ready-trained nurse, his wife, Yamliaer.

Your Money's Worth

Now Is the Time for Those Christmas Gyps

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Let's say that you are approached in your office building by a salesman offering bottles of expensive internationally-known French perfumes at prices well below those charged in retail stores. Should you buy such a bottle as a Christmas present for your wife?

Or let's say your child receives, unsolicited, a big batch of Christmas cards which he can sell to earn gift money — and

Your obvious rule for buying expensive perfume is: Buy from reputable sources only.

Unordered Items

2) Unordered Merchandise. This category may include anything from Christmas cards sent to your children to books, fountain pens, neckties, wallets, baby shoes, key rings and stationery sent to you. You are requested to pay for the goods or return them to the shipper. If you do neither, you may receive dunning letters threatening legal action unless you pay.

Sometimes unordered merchandise is sent C.O.D., and in one scheme, the person delivering the C.O.D. package will request payment from an unsuspecting neighbor if you are not at home.

Porter

that you the parent later receive a bill for the cards which are still stashed away in the child's toy chest. Are you obliged to pay the bill?

The answer to both of these questions is no. These are just two examples of the wide variety of gyms, rackets and gross misrepresentations which inevitably will appear all over the U.S. as the Christmas spending spree gets under way.

Here Is the List

To help you spot this year's Christmas gyms, here is a list of the hardest ones, with tips on how to avoid each, from the fraction of ordinary retail National Better Business Bureau prices. When you receive them and the Metropolitan New York BBB:

1) Perfume rackets. In some cases, the gypster will rebottle expensive name-brand cologne or toilet water in pursize flacons. You are led to believe that the flacons contain genuine perfume and are therefore worth far more than a similar quantity of cologne or toilet water. You may actually be about it, paying an exorbitant price, as much as seven times the amount you would pay for the same mail amount of the original. In other cases, the racketeer will counterfeit labels of name brand perfumes and will copy the prices as well. Or he may peddle perfumes under French names such as "La Vie en Rose," falsely implying that the perfume is imported and therefore worth the price.

Wood Ticks Irritate; Watch for Infection

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. While some women have none

Dear Dr. Molner: Until the last two years I had never heard of a woodtick, but in the summer and fall my little sister, who plays in the grass a lot, has had several of them.

We have heard of using a cigar, lipstick and fingernail polish and have tried them all, but the ticks never come out.

I have heard that if you leave the things in, they suck your blood and you will be poisoned from it. What should you do?

Ticks and chiggers are annoying. They cause irritation, itching and a small welt, and like anything else which breaks the skin, you should be on guard against infection entering.

But they do not "suck your blood." There is a tiny amount of poison in the bite of the tick, but as there is in the bite of other insects, the irritation neutralizes the poison, which takes a day or so.

I have tried the nail-polish treatment on myself. The idea is that if "smothers" a tick or chigger, I am not sure that the treatment did much good.

The better approach is to get rid of the ticks first. Obviously the grass where your sister plays is infested with the pests. You can spray the area with sprays which can be obtained at nurseries or hardware stores to eliminate the insects (don't let your sister play in the grass until the spray has dried).

If you cannot pin down the area, although it must be somewhere around the house, repellent can be applied to the skin and clothing. It also is effective against mosquitoes.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about cataracts and contact lenses and was so glad that I could have them fixed. I was just as there is in the bite of mind and said I should have the contact lenses which I don't wear. My nerves are very bad and I worry the just to think of putting anything in my eye and taking it out. — L.J.

Contact lenses are so much better, give you much wider vision, instead of letting you see only straight ahead, that your doctor is just advising what will be best for you.

You might ask him if you can have contact lenses after a cataract operation — or perhaps someone who has had glasses and then contacts. Such a patient can tell you how easy it is to use the contacts. But certain nervous individuals don't tolerate contact lenses very well.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it normal for the breast to be sore about 16 days before my menstrual period? I have felt for a lump but found none. What causes this soreness? — Mrs. C

Legislative Salaries Again

Members of the state legislature are again the targets of a rash of criticism in the Wisconsin press and elsewhere inspired by the fact that one section of an administrative agency salary bill recently approved by the state Senate and sent to the Assembly contains a modest boost in their own future compensation.

As we observe the reactions, the resentment is occasioned not so much by the amount of pay involved, but in the idea that "they are voting raises for themselves," as some of the letters to the editor around the state put it.

Is it necessary to explain, aside from the merits of a particular salary level for our senators and assemblymen, that the only constitutional means available for such adjustments is through an act of the legislature, and that any such adjustments will become effective only after the succeeding legislative elections and the electorate has the opportunity of judging the record of its incumbent representatives? The governor cannot decree salary changes. The supreme court cannot. No other branch of the government has any jurisdiction in the expenditure of state funds, as we must suppose nearly everybody knows.

The proposition now before the legislature would raise legislative pay by $600 a year, to $9,000. Remembering that the legislature authorized another boost as recently as 1965, effective this year, from $5,400 to $3,400, the new proposal may indeed appear premature in an objective view.

But we fear that a part of the public response to the issue reflects inadequate reporting of the legislation from Madison. In one news "lead" after another, and in most of the headlines, we have read about the legislative salary question. Only incidentally have many of the dispatches noted that it is contained in an omnibus bill that offers far more generous pay to administrative agency heads, some of them scheduled for boosts of up to $6,000 a year, to $26,000.

It is also rarely mentioned that the idea of flexibility in officer and legislative salaries, which has long been accepted for the rank and file of the civil servants, was proposed by the original Kellett committee on efficiency in state administration. The idea that the responsible head of a state department is as deserving of pay adjustments as are his subordinates should not be subject to argument. What the Kellett committee said in effect is that there should also be some flexibility in the compensation of legislators to whom those department heads are responsible. It recommended that they be paid at a level equal to that of the lowest ranking full time agency chiefs. The question for discussion, therefore, is whether any of the state officers should be given a pay raise for their next terms. It is not an issue confined to the legislative branch.

The French Attack on the Dollar

The protestations of the French government that it had nothing to do with fostering the run on gold in an attack on the United States dollar following British devaluation of the pound were exposed for the fraud they were when President de Gaulle held one of his infrequent press conferences this week. De Gaulle included a bitter attack on the dollar in a whole package of international insults which ranged from a virtual veto of Britain's new bid to enter the Common Market to an attack on Israel and all-out support for the province of Quebec to secede from the Canadian federation.

The cashing in of American dollars for gold accelerated rapidly immediately after the British devaluation. But an international pool of gold set up some years ago by seven major banking nations has been able to meet the demand for gold and hold the international price at $35. The United States originally supplied about 50 per cent of the gold to the pool, but when France withdrew from the pool earlier this year we had to pick up its nine per cent share in addition.

The outburst of gold buying was touched off by speculation that the demand for gold could not be met and the price would go up. If so, holders of gold would profit and holders of United States dollars would suffer. The buying wave, which reached near panic proportions last week, tapered off early this week. But President de Gaulle's attack on the dollar was certainly not calculated to soothe the situation.

De Gaulle also attacked American industrial investment in Europe. He explained that investment "is just exactly the amount" of the annual U.S. balance of payments deficit, and thus America was exporting its inflation abroad.

If there is one field in which De Gaulle is not an expert it is the field of international economics and finance. He should be reminded that other major factors in our balance of payments deficit include the money American tourists spend abroad, or what it costs us to maintain the armed forces in Europe which still provide the principal defense for the continent.

The time has come when we must recognize De Gaulle for what he is, an avowed opponent of United States' interests in Europe. We can no longer laugh him off as an egotistical blow-hard in advance stages of senility.

We must take steps to protect the solidarity of the dollar against what obviously has become a long-range French attack. And among the steps we should consider are calling France to account on the six and one-half billion dollars in debts they owe us, an embargo on further American investment in France, or a ban on American tourists travelling in France.

Housing for the Elderly

Now that a special committee of the United Community Services (UCS) has conducted a survey into the housing requirements of Appleton's senior citizens, perhaps an action program will emerge with several groups in the community assisting the newly-created Housing Authority with the major task ahead.

Just the basic material contained in the survey, and not including projections, indicated the community's elderly want low rental housing and are willing to pay the going rate under the state-federal subsidy program to get such modern living facilities.

A preliminary review of the report, and discussion with local and regional planners, would indicate a high-rise apartment development for the elderly in the central city area appears in order. It would fit in with the Comprehensive Plan, along with possibly clearing up some sites where marginal buildings now exist.

The eventual purpose of a Housing Authority is to enable the city to use federal assistance programs to provide low rent housing for the elderly on low incomes. With federal backing, the Authority would be authorized to issue bonds to finance construction with repayment pegged to rental income. For Appleton, the question concerning low rent housing for the elderly appears to center on how much.

While housing for senior citizens is usually thought of in terms of community-federal government participation — there is nothing to preclude private developers here from constructing a housing complex for the elderly and then selling it to the federal government, which would turn it over to the Housing Authority under the so-called "turnkey" program.

However, unless private interests provide the housing which is being supplied senior citizens in other Wisconsin cities, it will be the responsibility of local, state and federal government to take the initiative. The UCS committee has rendered a valuable service for the elderly and community in general by conducting its survey. The Housing Authority should now respond in a positive fashion.

Taylor Writes

U.S. Has Played Into De Gaulle's Hands in His Attack on the Dollar

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Much is unrevealed about the inside bang-bang that ended with the news that Britain has devalued the pound. In simple truth, Prime Minister Harold Wilson gave up the ghost against the judgment and protest of our Federal Reserve officials and the committed consortium of European central banks.

Taylor

Behind the scenes at the New York-Washington end of the struggle, our Federal Reserve and Treasury chiefs were convinced that the pound could be saved, agreed to back it, and believed then and still believe that the results of Britain's act are far worse than the very hard salvation problems they were willing to face.

What we've really seen is the throat-cut of one throat of a Siamese twin.

The entire free world's post-war monetary system is founded on the exchange ratio of the U.S. dollar to the British pound and the convertibility of gold at today's fixed $35 price — a foundation French President Charles de Gaulle violently protests.

SIAMESE TWINS

The ratio makes a Siamese twin out of the pound and dollar. And the fundamental

Lewis Process and Arno Seifert

Smith, of Badger School; Janet Williams, Triangle School; Jerold Kieberg, McCarthy School; anis Ruwold, Wood-d Jerold Kieberg, McCarthy School; Janis Ruwold, Wood-lawn School, and David Guisen, Elmdale School.

Phil Behl rolled an honor count of 607 in the Fox Valley Fish Couples Bowling League which meets at Hahn's Alley's. He was a member of the Minnows team.

basis for our vastly expensive support of the pound with the American Taxpayers' money has been Britain's absolute guarantee that she would not devalue her pound unilaterally. But that is what Britain did.

The Siamese twin has functioned in a vital way as a result — and only as a result — of the combined support of our Treasury and the splendidly cooperative consortium of European central banks.

Our British cousins not only use the pound among themselves as we use our dollar, but both — tied together — are the reserve currency used like an international currency by central banks throughout the free world. An estimated 70 per cent of Britain's pound supply is held by foreigners abroad, valued at the ratio interchangeable into U.S. dollars or gold.

Thus, the effect has been to make the defense of the pound and the defense of the dollar indivisible.

This indivisibility, and all British urgings to preserve it, weathered a great storm in November, 1964, by the support Britain sought in the consortium. In addition, Britain borrowed an emergency $1 billion from the International Monetary Fund. In May, 1965, she drew $1.4 billion more. And in a column as long ago as July 8, 1966, I pointed out that a new crisis was on the way (behind the scenes) and that Britain's true reserves supporting the pound had become, in fact, practically nil.

President de Gaulle had vigorously stepped into the picture, as likewise detailed at the same time.

I quoted from Paris de Gaulle's financial confidant M. Jacques Rueff as tipping off de Gaulle's secret strategy by claiming we should pay $70 an ounce for gold and thus again devalue the U.S. dollar. Analyzing this, it meant that de Gaulle would set out to achieve enough of a corner on gold to let him ultimately force our dollar off its moorings.

OWE US $6.57 BILLION

The New Frontier-Great Society's financial irresponsibility by continued overspending at home and abroad provided this vulnerability, and although France still owes us $6.57 billion in adjusted debts — some so old they go back 27 years — we have allowed de Gaulle to give muscle to his war on our dollar by outrageously hammering away at our dwindling gold stock.

This stock reached its peak at $27.7 billion during the week ended September 21, 1949. We finally lost so much that today it is actually less than that of Europe's Common Market countries. Our reserves have gone down every year for 10 years while theirs have gone up. More than half the gold drainage through the international gold pool, from which France withdrew this June, comes from Fort Knox, and four days before the British devalued, our gold stock broke below $13 billion, another new 29-year low.

With the cutting of one throat of the Siamese twins, the dollar stands solitary and alone, further weakened by our colossal write-off in pounds.

Accordingly, there has been an enormous and relentless pressure on the gold market, as foreseen by our Federal Reserve-Treasury chiefs, and de Gaulle sits kicking his chops.

His strategy would produce the French franc as a key currency and at the same time force a further watered-down U.S. dollar that would knock the American price level into a feverish climb, which is water on the wheel of every internal and external enemy of the United States.

Wisconsin Report

Reasons Are Varied
Why State Has Not Raised Tax on Beer

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Among the most frequent topics of inquiry from worried or puzzled taxpayers as they watch the state wrestle with the worsening problems of financing an expanding range of state and local services is the low state excise tax on beer.

Wyngaard

Why not raise the tax, a couple of current letters demand, evidently in reaction to the Legislature's decision to permit localities to levy their own special taxes on automobiles and hotel and motel rooms?

There are many reasons. They are, however, rarely told in perspective. The typical explanation is that there is a mysterious power called the beer lobby that frightens the Legislature away from the idea whenever anybody suggests it, as Gov. Knowles, for example, suggested it only two years ago. This report has paid its respects to the so-called beer lobby many times. It is formidable in fact. It represents the breweries and tens of thousands of persons involved in the distribution and sale of malt beverages, many of them political activists. It also involves a big factor in the coalition, the big Milwaukee brewery workers' unions closely allied with the Democratic Party which has had a substantial representation in the Legislature during the period of financial stress and strain of the last decade.

OTHERS REASONS LISTED

Some of the demands for more beer taxation come from interests that are not especially concerned about revenue and the financing of public services. Their purpose is punitive and their attitudes smack of prohibition which has always been unpopular in Wisconsin. There is reason to observe, parenthetically, that some of the spokesmen for the prohibition idea, whatever the nobility of their intentions, are doing the cause of highway safety more harm than good by intervening in the argument about a uniform beer consumption age.

Beer is "the workingman's drink," as the saying goes, and there is enough truth in the assertion to make it a political factor. There is little doubt that many a wage-earning patron of the corner bar would bear more resentment about a high tax on beer than a less visible boost in his income taxes collected by way of payroll withholding.

The brewery interests make the argument that any additional taxation of beer would reduce their market, especially as it may invite retaliatory legislation in other states. The merit of the assertion is difficult to measure. But it is an interesting fact, perhaps not widely known, that in spite of prosperity and the growth of population, and perhaps contrary to the impressions of the naked eye, that the beer tax collections of the state, and thus presumably the beer consumption within the state, have remained comparatively static. If people are drinking more, they are turning to liquor and wines.

LOW PRODUCTIVITY CITED

But without pretending to psychoanalyze the Legislature as an institution, the most likely reason why beer has escaped more tax liability since the one dollar a barrel tax was imposed in 1933 is that it is not really a very productive source.

The yield for recent years has hovered around $3.5 million a year at the present rate.

When the boards of education and teachers' associations were lobbying the Legislature frantically last month on behalf of a $30 million boost in the biennial school aid budget, one of their proposals to reluctant legislators was to "raise the tax on beer." But to raise that kind of money with a beer tax would have meant a quadrupling of the rate, at the very least. This would make the Wisconsin levy higher than any other state in the Midwest except Michigan.

Some day, out of utter necessity, the Legislature will look to the beer bottle and can as an additional source of income. But it will come in less radical leaps than some critics suppose, or hope. It is a useful footnote to the story, moreover, that the highest rates of taxation on beer in this country are effective in those jurisdictions that tend to be "dry" in political attitude, including many of the states of the Deep South. Other major beer producing states tend to have low rates also.

Strictly Personal

Name Often Leads To Popular Success

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Who knows what trivial things can be responsible for a huge popular success? I thought of this seeing a newspaper ad announcing the return of the film "Gone With the Wind," at reserved seat prices.

Harris

Margaret Mitchell's first and only successful book was turned down by a dozen publishers, when Harold Latham of the Macmillan Co. read it and decided to take a chance on publication.

But first he changed its cumbersome title to "Gone With the Wind" — a line from Dowson's nostalgic poem, "Cynara." Next, he changed the first name of the leading character from "Pansy" to "Scarlett."

"Pansy O'Hara" is a silly and comedic name; "Scarlett O'Hara" is a daring and dramatic name — one that many women could identify with. Since "Gone With the Wind" was barely a cut above most historical novels of its type, the title of the book and the leading female character must have had a lot to do with its runaway popularity.

It is not generally known that three Presidents of the United States abolished their true first names, and today are commonly known only by their second and third names, which they felt were more characteristic of their real personalities.

They are John Calvin Coolidge, Thomas Woodrow Wilson, and Hiram Ulysses Grant. Many a barroom bet can still be won by asking scientists to give the first names of these presidents.

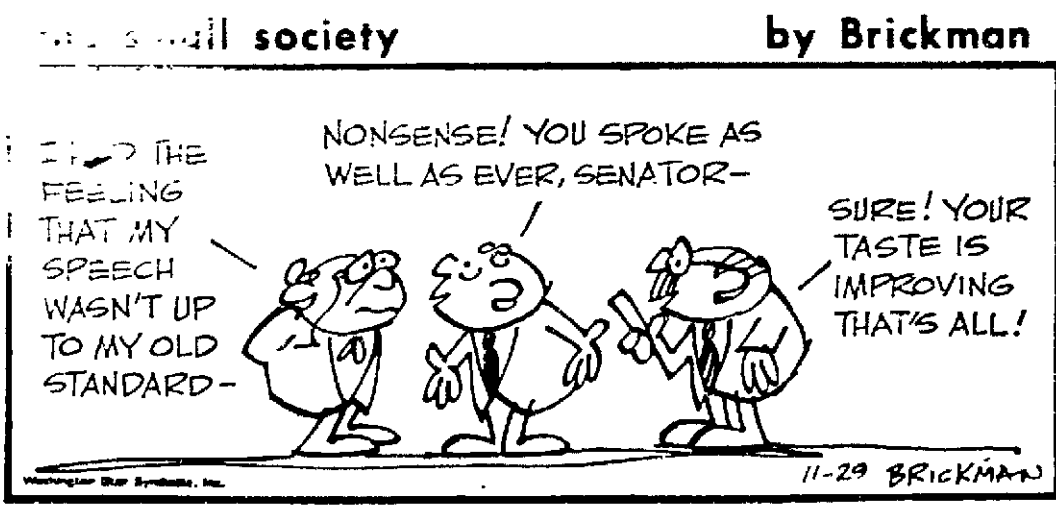

And it has often been noted, of course, that Hitler's real name was Schickelgruber, which he shrewdly discarded for the sharper emotional appeal of "Heil, Hitler." Somehow, "Heil, Schickelgruber!" smacks too much of the Marx Brothers movie, even in German.

Motion picture performers have long been aware of the psychological impact of names, and have almost invariably changed their names to conform to current standards of status or glamor or chic. Even the fan-dancer, Sally Rand, changed her drab last name during her debut at the 1933 Chicago World's Fair, by glancing at the cover of a Rand & McNally atlas.

The judicious use of initials is another common way to avoid an awkward or unlikable name — how many of the millions of delighted readers of the P. G. Wodehouse stories are aware that his formidable full name is Pelham Granville Wodehouse? Or how many, cheering as he ran between the goalposts, knew that Y. A. Tittle was in truth Yelberton Abraham Tittle? There's a fit mate for Pansy O'Hara.

It Is Mother's Duty to Tell Daughter About Facts of Life

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: Is a 9-year-old girl too young to know about the use of sanitary napkins and tampons? My daughter is always drawing my attention to pictures and advertisements of such female articles.

I don't know how to go about explaining this and sex to her. I did tell her it is something she will use when she is old enough. There is an 11-year-old girl in our neighborhood that I think is causing confusion for my daughter about this and sex. I would appreciate any suggestions.

MRS. J. W. Please stop blaming your daughter's friend for your daughter's questions. I have a hunch your daughter is asking such questions because she's angry over your failure to tell her the facts of life. Sit down with her now and help her understand the differences between men and women and the facts of how children are conceived and born. Explain to her that when an egg becomes too ripe it is sloughed off and causes some vaginal bleeding monthly — sanitary napkins and tampons are used to absorb the discharge. You'll find this topic and many related ones discussed in detail in my pamphlet, "Telling Your Teenager About Sex." Although your daughter is not yet a teen she has a right to have her questions answered.

DEAR DR. JONES: We have some relatives who have a 10-month-old girl, and when they come over they drive us practically nuts. They play "Pass the Baby." By this I mean they argue who's going to hold her. The mother tells her dad to take her, then vice versa, and this goes on for hours. I told them to put her down and let her go. But they say if they let her go, she'll make a mess of everything. I told her mother to correct her and tell her, "No," and eventually she'll be OK. She told me I have to move everything if she's to let her go. I have a child and I never did this. If he touched something, I said, "No," and if he broke it, I glued it back together. (This only happened two or three times.) He finally got tired of being reminded and never touched anything he shouldn't in our home or anyone else's. Sure, he'd go look and become very curious, but the word "No" meant something to him. He was only 7 months old when he began to learn.

That little girl has her parents wrapped right around her little finger. The parents know this and they actually brag about it. What's this child going to be like in years to come if this continues? I feel it's going to be something the parents will regret. MRS. A. R.

It isn't wise to hold a child continuously because every child needs plenty of opportunity to move around, freely exploring the objects in the world around him. Without such freedom, a child becomes extremely tense and rebellious. I hope this child's parents make few visits and allow her to have plenty of freedom to roam at home.

Next time they visit you, remove all valuable and fragile objects out-of-sight and out-of-reach. Then insist they let her go.

Morticians Scoff At Body Freezing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A spokesman for the American Cemetery Association said recently "somebody's pulling somebody's leg" with experimentation in freezing human bodies for possible later restoration to life.

The association's executive vice president, Jim Worley, told the 500 delegates at the group's annual meeting that there is "no scientific basis" to the idea that frozen bodies could be brought back to life.

He referred to reports of attempts to freeze bodies, with plans to try reviving them in the future when cures for fatal illnesses may be discovered.

Young Children's Library

Build the reading interests, habits & skills that insure your child's success in school

IT IS DURING THE EARLY YEARS THAT YOU MUST HELP YOUR CHILD DEVELOP GOOD READING SKILLS!

We know you want the very best for your children. Being aware that most parents do not have the time or the perspective to select the right stories and books for the pre-school and early-school years child, Parents' Magazine asked Augusta Baker, Coordinator of Children's Services of the New York Public Library, one of America's outstanding authorities on the subject to do this job for you.

The complete set of 10 Volumes covers the entire gamut of very carefully selected stories, poems and other material your "beginning reader" or "read to me" child will enjoy and will be of help to him in his development of reading skills. Each story and poem is gaily illustrated and will appeal to even the youngest mind.

The 10 volumes cover Nursery Rhymes and Cradle songs (for the Nursery years), Nursery Stories, Verse and Fable (for the first years for Read-Aloud hours), Fairy Tales (for shared and independent reading), Stories and Poems (for independent reading), and a Mother's Guide to Children's Reading by Rachele Thomas, Child Psychologist and member of the Parent Counseling Staff of the Child Study Association of America.

These volumes are truly the stepping-stones into the world of words and pictures, lavishly illustrated in color. This set will build the reading interests, habits, and skills that help to ensure the child's success in school.

SPECIAL VOLUMES FOR MOTHERS!

Realizing how little time parents have to give to the subject of "reading development" for their children, Volumes 9 and 10 are your guide to your child's reading. Rachele Thomas, Child Psychologist and member of the Parent Counseling staff of the Child Study Association of America, the well known Reading Specialist, has in these two enlightened Volumes covered the "how to" to develop in the child a love for reading at each age and stage of growth. Reading is a complicated process — the most difficult thing your child will ever have to learn. Given an early opportunity at home to hear good poetry and prose, your child can easily achieve independent and ample joys and rewards of reading that lasts a lifetime. In readable, helpful chapters, Miss Thomas answers every need to help you make your child become a good reader.

We care

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.
Years and years ago, when we decided to bake Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best. That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough delicious cake to hold together the bounty of cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular. IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $3.99. That's the same low price as last year which makes it an even greater value.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular. One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

Neenah's Jankowski Named Offensive End on AP's All State Football Team

GBW's Tagge Picked as QB Of Honor Unit

By Ken Hartnett

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four record-breaking backs who brought the college scouts running highlight The Associated Press 1967 All-Wisconsin high school football team announced today.

Three of them, John Krugman of Madison La Follette, Jerry telsen of Hudson, accounted for a total of 63 touchdowns and 4,003 yards rushing.

The fourth, quarterback Jerry Tagge of Green Bay West, accounted for over 1,500 yards and passing and running.

Krugman, Tagge and defense back Ron Anderson of Peewaukee were the only unanimous choices for what was the most exclusive All-Wisconsin record ever chosen.

A panel of five sports writers, each representing a different region, sifted the names of hundreds of players before presenting their recommendations.

Only two teams were chosen by the panel and each panel member was allowed only five nominations for an elite honor.

Krugman, Tagge and defense back Ron Anderson of Peewaukee were the only unanimous choices for what was Tagge, the quarterback for the all-senior starting team, had only juniors blocking for him at Green Bay West. He was also hobbled most of the season by injuries.

Yet, he led unbeaten West to the Fox River Valley Conference title by completing 111 of 193 passes for 1,261 yards and rushed for another 236 yards.

The "Back of the Year" in Fox Valley, Tagge, 6-foot-2, 200 pounds, passed for 11 touchdowns and ran for four more.

Like Bertelsen and Krugman, he also handled kicking chores. Tagge kicked 12 extra points and had a 38-yard punting average.

Schuler Named To Exclusive 'Mention' List

Neenah High School is represented on the all-state football team for the second straight year.

Jankowski, a both-ways standout, was picked as offensive end. He scored 45 points this season more exclusive than it has ever and 134 for his Neenah career. "He's definite college material," said Neenah Coach Ben Meixl of the big end.

Bill Dessart, coach of Preble, the only team to beat Neenah, undisputed league title.

this season, singled Jankowski out for praise.

The only other Fox Cities player to win recognition was Little Chute St. John's Ed (Oscar) Schuler on the considerably-reduced honorable mention list. The "mention" list became more exclusive than it has ever been since only 25 top names were permitted on it this year.

Having bowed out of Mid-Eastern Conference football circles with a sixth consecutive crown, the Neenah Red Rockets seek to extend their domination of basketball to two years in a row as the M-E cage race begins Friday night.

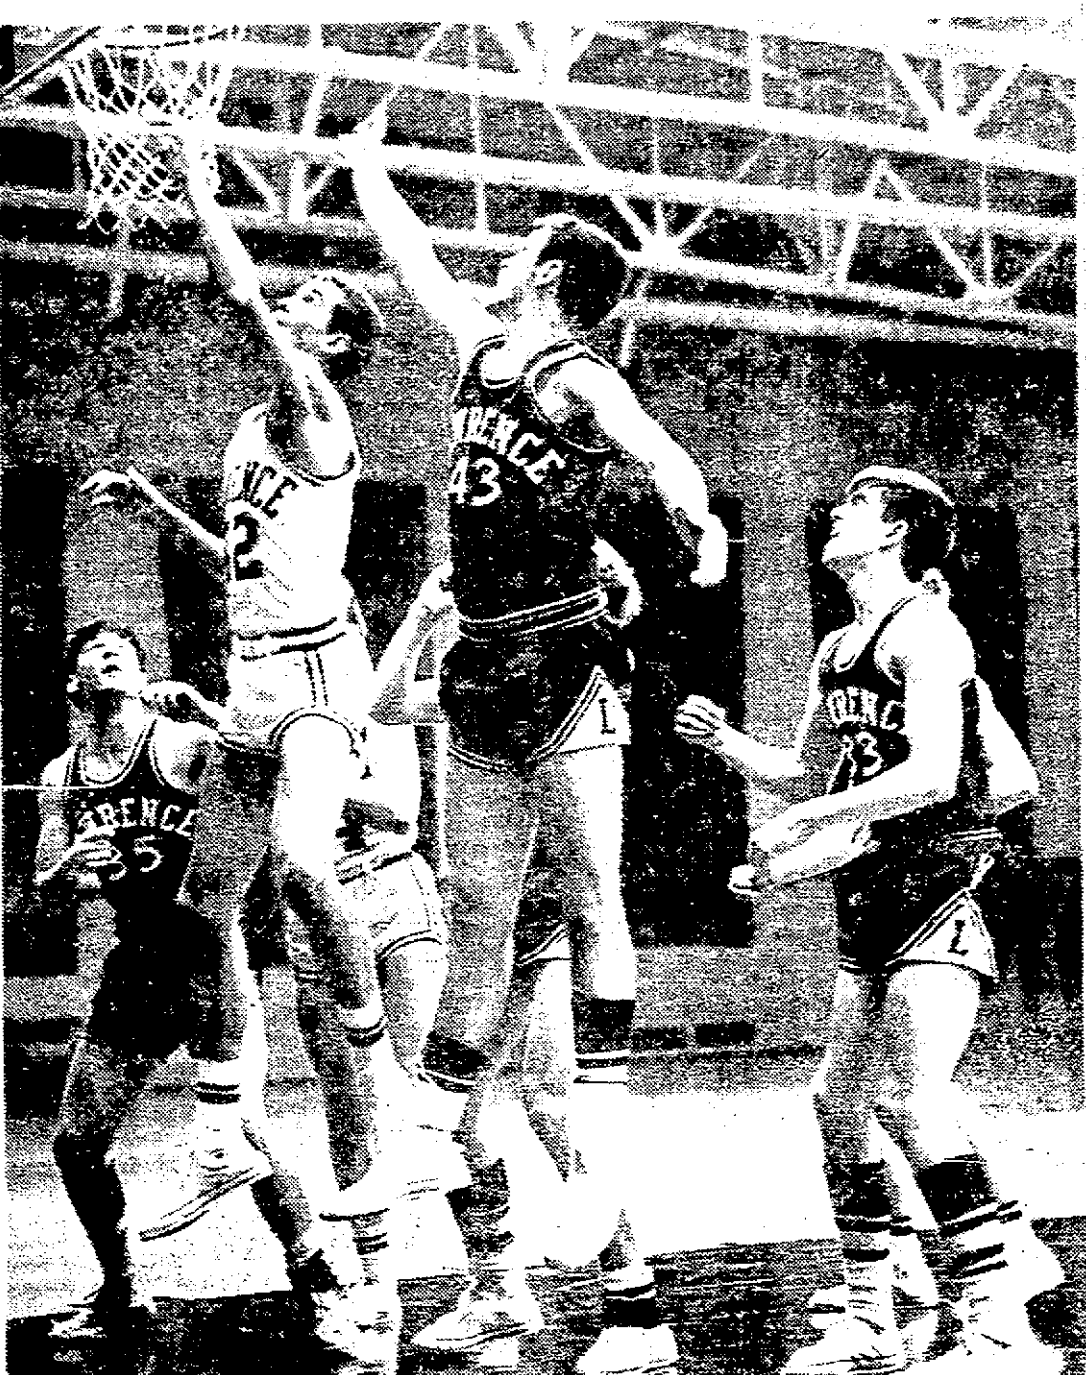

Coach Doug Martin's Rockets, who swept through 14 league games a year ago without defeat, entertain New London's Bulldogs as one of four league games scheduled. In other M-E openers, Menasha plays host to Kaukauna. Clintonville is home to Two Rivers, and Shawano has a home engagement against Kimberly.

Entering its final season in the league, Neenah finds itself again in the role of favorite to capture first-place honors, but two also-rans of last season — Shawano and Kimberly — appear ready to make strong challenges for the top.

Kaukauna, second-place finisher in 1966-67, along with Menasha lead the darkhorse possibilities.

Neenah will be going after its fifth title since the Western Division of the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference broke away for the 1950-51 season to form the M-E. The Rockets shared the top with Menasha, in 1950-51, won it along in 1961, tied with Two Rivers in 1961-62, and were sole champs in 1966-67. Before the league changed named in 1950-51, the Rockets won or shared 10 crowns from 1927-28.

Dan Jankowski leads Neenah as the highest scoring returnee of anyone in the conference. Jankowski placed sixth last year with 225 points. Denny Spice, the loop's eighth high scorer with

Can Appleton Xavier's seven Fox Valley Catholic Conference rivals score an athletic encore?

The Hawks' FVCC football domination was recently halted end, it will be Fox Valley Lutheran at St. John (8 p.m. Saturday). Ripon at Lourdes (8 p.m. Saturday) and Prairie Du Chien Campion at Premontré (8 p.m. Friday) and at Menasha (3 p.m. Sunday).

The answer to whether the 6-times-in-a-row champion basketball Hawks can be stopped will start unfolding this week, when the league campaign is launched. Xavier opens its title defense at 8 p.m. Saturday against St. Mary's in Fond du Lac.

Judging by the way the Gene (Torchy) Clark-coached Hawks performed in pre-conference netting early last season. After play, it will take a bit of doing to that. Xavier won its final 11 pray them loose from the league championship. Xavier won all four of its pre-league starts — another victory streak. They've three of which were on the road — by margins ranging from 21 to 26 points.

2 Others Unbeaten
The only other FVCC teams who came through pre-conference play unscathed were Menasha St. Mary and Green Bay Premontré, both 2-0, who will meet head-on Saturday.

The first 1967-8 FVCC game will start at 7 p.m. Thursday in Oshkosh, when Little Chute St.

John invades the Lourdes court. Besides the Xavier-Springs Saturday night, Abbot Pennings will invade Marinette Central.

In non-league starts this week, in league play, the Hawks (8 p.m. Saturday) and Prairie Du Chien Campion at Premontré (8 p.m. Friday) and at Menasha (3 p.m. Sunday).

In their amazing six years of FVCC membership, the Hawks have reeled off 80 basketball victories while bowing only four times.

Their latest league loss was a 71-69 decision at Marinette early last season. After that, Xavier won its final 11 pray them loose from the league championship. Xavier won all four of its pre-league starts — another victory streak. They've three of which were on the road — by margins ranging from 21 to 26 points.

Pat Fitzgerald, the top returning scorer in the FVCC (he was second to Marinette's Rocky Slawinski last season), will lead the Hawks against Springs.

"Fitz" already has blazed away for 109 points, an average of 27.3.

BY JACK HAND

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Minnesota has grabbed a No. 1 meeting, that he asked a reporter to repeat it several times before he would believe the news.

Minnesota thinks it has solidified its bid for the 1968 American League pennant by bolstering its relief pitching with a proven lefty-right combination in 30-year-old Perranoski and 28-year-old Miller.

The five-players swap Tuesday night was so startling to the

Versalles Grant Perranoski Roseboro

Found the Man
Hurting for a top receiver after the retirement of Earl Battey, the Twins believe they have found the man for at least one year in 34-year-old Roseboro, who hit .273 last season. Perranoski was 6-7 and Miller 2-9 for the Dodgers in 1967.

The Dodgers, desperate for a shortstop after trading Maury Wills to Pittsburgh a year ago, count on Versailles, most valuable player in the American League in 1965, but a .200 hitter last season, to fill the job that was too much for Gene Michael last season.

Grant, of course, could be a big man in the starting rotation if the 32-year-old right-hander could come back from a 5-6 year to that 21-7 season in the pennant-winning season of 1965

Senior guard Brian Bock, captain of this year's squad, topped the upperclassmen with 20 points. Freshman guard Jim Dyer, Lexington, Mass., led all scorers with 22.

The Viking varsity, which finished eighth in conference last season with a 6-12 mark, traveled in spurts. Its most concerted foray came midway

'O.J.' Second in Voting Beban Cops Heisman Trophy

By Bob Myers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The name of Gary Joseph Beban, and 1,772 points, and Leroy quarterback, UCLA, was duly Keyes, Purdue, 278 first and registered today as the 1967 Heisman Memorial Trophy winner, selected by 1,033 writers and broadcasters as the outstanding college football player of the year.

Beban, a senior, accepted the award in typical Beban fashion. He was pleased, naturally. He was also modest, generous in wishing he could share it with his teammates and he was just as poised about the whole thing as he had been in leading UCLA to national prominence during his three years at Bruinville.

Tommy Prothro, his coach, was equally delighted. It was the second Heisman Trophy winner he has coached. Terry Baker at Oregon State in 1962 was the other.

Beban won the Heisman over the formidable opposition. He polled 369 first place votes for 1,968 points. His closest challengers were halfback O. J. Simpson of Club.

He may have been a late starter, having attained regular status at the somewhat mature football age of 29, but Jeter, Packers' pantherlike Bob Jeter, is making up for lost time with a vengeance.

Although the world champions have three games remaining on their National Football League schedule, the 30-year-old University of Iowa alumnus already has registered more interceptions this season than any other player. Packer has been able to collect since Willie Wood emerged as league leader in 1962 with nine. Jeter, who fished his seventh pass in the first quarter of last Sunday's title-clinching triumph over the Bears in venerable Wrigley Field, attributes his success to three items — confidence, "education" and the Packer pass rush.

'Know My Defenses'
The well-knit Pittsburgh resident, whose major league arrival was delayed by a two-year (1960-61) detour through Canada and a one-year layoff required by NFL rules because he had played the '62 exhibition schedule north of the border, explains, "I know my defenses a lot better now and I have a lot more confidence because of it — and that means a lot. . . . Plus I know the receivers a lot better."

"Plus, of course, the great rush that our front four has been putting on the passer. Like, in the Cleveland game, I intercepted one off Frank Ryan and the reason is he just threw that one up for grabs, he had such a great rush put on him."

The cat-cup cornerback, who became a regular last season, already has eclipsed his entire 1966 interception total. "I had five last year," he notes, "and I didn't get my fifth one until the last game of the season against Los Angeles."

Only One To Pass
His confidence has been bolstered no little, Jeter informed, by the knowledge that he had permitted only one touchdown pass to be caught in his area last season.

"Dave Parks of the 49ers got one on me in Milwaukee last December," he said, adding with a rueful grin. "I've had two caught on me this year. Malinchak (Bill) took it out of my hands on the first one in Detroit. I should have had that one. And Alex Hawkins caught one the day we lost to the Colts. He ran a good pattern — just beat me."

His most difficult assignment? "Dave Parks is the toughest for me to cover," Bob replied without a trace of hesitation. "He's the best all-around receiver in the league. He has good speed. He runs good patterns, plus when he gets the ball, he can run with it. He can break a game wide open."

Quarterbacks Now Cautious
Evidence of Jeter's spectacular development — he now is rated one of the league's premier cornerbacks — can be found in the fact that opposing quarterbacks are becoming cautious about throwing into his sector.

"They're not testing me like they did my first year," Bob happily admits. "I know in our first game against Chicago this year, for example, they threw only one pass in my area. New York didn't throw any my way at all, and I didn't have any passes completed in my area in our first game against Detroit. In fact, they didn't throw too many."

How does he feel about his chances of making all-NFL? Jeter smiled and replied, "I scored three in the fading Ricekman, 0 1 1; Schmidt, 3 1 1; Slosarek, 0 1 1; Weinandt, 0 0 3; McIlraith, 0 0 3; Dem-was Dennis Harrigan with 18 m.vng, 0 2 0. Totals: 16 17 12."

Juvenile Court Counselor
A flanker during his first two seasons with the Packers, the lithe Union, S.C., native is happy at his present station, but he confides, "I still have a hidden desire to play flanker for one year in this league. My hands were terrible when I played the position, but they seem to have gotten better since I've been on defense. I can't understand it."

Bob, a highly conscientious citizen, has an unusual off-season occupation — as a counselor for Pittsburgh's juvenile court. "I've been doing it for three years," he says, "and I like it. I work with young boys in the 14-17 age group. . . . I enjoy working with boys."

Twins Trade Versailles to Los Angeles

when he beat the Dodgers twice in the World Series.

The Twins-Dodgers deal overshadowed other action as the trading mart picked up with a Pittsburgh-Detroit swap of relievers Dennis Ribant and Dave Wickersham and a Baltimore-Cleveland deal that sent John O'Donoghue to the Orioles for Eddie Fisher, the 31-year-old knuckleball pitcher.

Orioles Get Lund
The Orioles also acquired shortstop Gordon Lund for their Rochester farm and possible utility use while the Cleveland organization got pitcher Bob Scott and outfielder John Scruggs from the Baltimore chain for their Portland farm.

The busy trading day also included the conditional sale of outfielder Sam Bowers by Baltimore to Washington.

"We feel we have some young fellows coming up who can relieve," said Alston. "I thought we were deeper in pitching than anything else. If we had to give up something to get a shortstop it would be pitching. John Duffie (16-9 at Albuquerque) and Jack Billingham (7-4 at Spokane) are ready and we also have Jim Brewer as a left-hander."

Cal Ermer, manager of the Twins, said, "We feel all three will be very instrumental in helping our club. Roseboro is a behind in the second half to post guy who can catch for us and a 75-63 triumph over a foul-plagued Chilton quintet in a non-league game here Tuesday night."

More Than Adequate
Chilton committed 31 fouls in the contest, and the Dodgers took advantage by sinking 25 with us some of last season, free throw attempts compared with the home club's nine conversions. The Tigers outscored their foe from the floor, 30-25.

Chilton took an 18-14 lead at the end of the first quarter but fell down by one at the half, 35-34. The Dodgers then outscored the Tigers, 24-17, in the third period to stay on top. Chilton managed to get within four points at 71-67 with three minutes left but could come no closer.

Tim Shaw threw in 27 points to lead the winners, and Jim Colevin backed him up with 17. Nick Schneider, who fouled out in the fourth period, led the Chilton scoring with 12 points.

Chilton is now 1-2 for the season. Springs is 2-2. ST. MARY SPRINGS (14-21-24-16-75) St. Peter 3 1 4; Schraufnagel 4 6 3; Pomeroy 0 1 1; Colevin 6 5 3; Shaw 9 9 1; Callahan 1 1 1; Walgenbach 2 1 3; Hess 0 1 0. Totals: 25 25 16.

CHILTON (18-16-17-18-69) Luntner 4 0 4; Schneider 5 2 5; Mollon 1 0 3; Stecker 2 0 3; Gritter 4 0 4; Hauser 4 1 3; Burckner 3 2 4; Flemming 2 1 4; Sturtz 3 2 0; Schwarz 2 0 1. Totals 30 9 31.

WEYAUWEGA — Weyauwega Joe St. Marie led the Bulldogs led all the way Tuesday night in with 14. a non-conference game against New London to win, 54-49.

Weyauwega led, 22-13, at the 54: Behm, 3 1 0; Nolan, 4 1 5; Mallo, 0 1 1; Montgomery, scored more points in the second, 4 4 2; Harrigan, 8 2 3; Rohde, half (36-32). Weyauwega's lead proved too much. Alvin Dark, new manager of the Indians, said Fisher's knuckle made him especially effective as a relief pitched against left-handed batters although he throws right-handed. O'Donoghue was 8-9 for Cleveland and Fisher 4-3 for Baltimore.

According to Bauer, the Orioles wanted Lund from the Indians in case Mark Belanger, their apparent to the shortstop modicum of inconvenience at the job, went into service. Vet Minnesotans' hands in recent shortstop Luis Aparicio has months, as they ready for been involved in many trade rumors.

Hilbert's Cage Victory Led By Weinreis

HILBERT — Led by the shooting and rebounding of Joe Weinreis Hilbert High School defeated the Stockbridge Indians, 75-62. Tuesday night, Weinreis tallied 30 points, on 14 buckets and two free throws, and gathered in 29 rebounds.

Hilbert took the lead early in the first period and was never seriously troubled after that. After taking a 22-16 lead after the initial quarter, the Wolves went into the half with a 41-35 lead. They outscored the Indians 15-13 in the third stanza and 19-14 in the fourth. Stockbridge was led by Tom Head with 25 points.

HILBERT — (22 19 15 19—75) — Rossmeier 4 1 4; Plat 3 2 5; Schneider 1 0 1; Weinreis 14 2 3; fourth quarter against Pitts-then. 8 0 2; Hemauer 3 4 2. Totals: 33 9 20.

STOCKBRIDGE — (16 19 13 13—62) — Bunnell 6 8 3; Carney 1 0 2; Head 11 3 3; Hemauer 3 1 3; Propson 4 0 5; Hostettler time Kapp (quarterback Joe) doing."

One of those four victories is as good as anybody's in the league. It's come along. We've given up 123 points in our last seven games — and 27 of those came against Pitts-burg in a game we won big. That's not fantastic, but it's a lot better than we have been doing."

Grant's Vikings on Schedule

GREEN BAY — The fast maturing Minnesota Vikings, towering Bud Grant feels, are on schedule.

This intelligence can be of little comfort to the Packers, who have had more than a modicum of inconvenience at the hands of Minnesotans' hands in recent months, as they ready for Sunday's invasion of the Twin Cities.

In their first season under Grant's direction, the Vikings lost their first four games — and looked unimpressive in the process — but they have three and tied two of their last seven, including a 19-7 decision over the Pack in the gloom of Milwaukee County Stadium Oct. 15.

This major upsurge has inevitably triggered optimism in the Viking camp. "Bud thinks we're improvink," Viking publicity director Bill McGrane reported Tuesday. "That we're keeping up with the loose kind of schedule he's set for us."

Strong Finish
He said before the season, "It will be our goal to play our best ball in the last month of the season." We want to win our last four games — that would give us a .500 finish and that wouldn't be too bad for his first year."

One of those four victories is as good as anybody's in the league. It's come along. We've given up 123 points in our last seven games — and 27 of those came against Pitts-burg in a game we won big. That's not fantastic, but it's a lot better than we have been doing."

GREEN BAY (AP) — Tickets for the National Football League divisional playoff game at Milwaukee County Stadium Dec. 23, when the Packers will meet the winner of the Coastal Conference, are available now to holders of Milwaukee season tickets, the Packers said Monday.

Prices for the playoff game will be the same as for regular season contests, and the season ticket holders have until Dec. 4 to complete their orders.

The Packers also said they plan to send out letters to Green Bay season ticket holders late this week, in connection with a possible championship game in Green Bay Dec. 31.

The Packers would advance to the NFL title round with a Dec. 23 victory over the Coastal champion—either Baltimore or Los Angeles.

BY TV SCOUT
8-9 Channel 5 — Bob Hope provides us with a different look for a TV comedy show as this session of the Bob Hope Show is televised from U.C.L.A.'s Paul-ey Pavilion, a theater-in-the-round. The purpose of the show, aside from entertainment, is to raise money for the university's scholarship fund, and if that is as successful as the fun part of it, the coffers will be rich indeed. Bob's guests are Jack Jones, Elke Sommer, David Janssen and the singing group The Kids Next Door. (C)

6:30-8 Channel 5 — Poor Trampas always seems to get the worst part of any given episode of The Virginian, and he's right in there again tonight. It's another murder accusation only this time he is quickly exonerated. (C)

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Custer is forced to display his skills as a diplomat as well as a fighter as he faces a group of ex-Confederate settlers. (C)

7:30-8 Channels 2-5 — Granny, Jetiro and Elly May continue their operations against the upsurging Union forces on The Beverly Hillbillies. (C)

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — Pat Buttram as the wily Haney, takes most of the Green Acres episode after he gets some confidential information on a state highway proposed to run right through the Douglas farm. (C)

8-10 Channels 11-9 — "Wives and Lovers" is a pleasant little romantic comedy on The Wednesday Night Movie, but no more than little. Var Johnson and Janet Leigh are husband and wife, he an author with new success, she a housewife with a new suburban home and social activities. Their unfamiliar role in life leads to jealousies and affairs and the usual gaggle about suburban moralities. Martha Hyer, Shelley Winters and Ray Walston are featured.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Good dialogue and better use of it by Dick Benjamin and Jack Cassidy again highlight He and She. The problem tonight is their telephone which has a way of ringing in the middle of the night, every night. (C)

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Dundee never heard the phrase "you can't fight city hall" or else he would never have taken on this case and we would have missed a good episode of Dundee and the Culhane. Dana Wynter stars as a woman accused of killing her husband, a wealthy old man. (C)

Permanent Pacification Teams Will be Composed of Popular Forces From Area

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — For the umpteenth time, a major change in the all-important pacification program in South Vietnam is now in the works, but it may turn out to be the most realistic approach yet taken to end Communist control in the villages.

Evans Novak

"other war" have retooled their program more times in the past eight years than anybody in the Johnson administration cares to recall. Each change is hailed, then fails or falls far short. What makes it so vital is that, even if the military war goes splendidly, a solution of the Vietnam question depends upon pacification.

This latest change may be different. It goes to the heart of what has been wrong with the effort to establish a system of political control and security for hamlets under long term Communist Control. At present, a hamlet declared "pacified" by over-optimistic officials all too often turns out not to be pacified at all. When the Black Pajama pacification team leaves, the "pacified" hamlet returns to Communist control.

Permanent Teams Under the new plan, discussed at great length in the White House during Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker's visit here, pacification teams will be permanently assigned to a hamlet, instead of moving in for two or

Mother Cabrini First American to be Sainted

The first American citizen to be declared a saint by the Catholic Church was Francesca Cabrini. Mother Cabrini died in 1917 on December 22, which was made her feast day in 1946 when she was sainted. This requires a major change in recruitment of the Black Pajama teams, greatly expanding their numbers by tapping the manpower pool of Vietnamese inducted for para-military service. Up to now, recruitment has been limited to volunteers, who spend several months at pacification training centers. Only about 600 of the 59-man Revolutionary Development teams have been trained and sent to the field so far — pitifully small when compared with the 5,000 to 7,000 hamlets under some degree of Communist control.

Given New Status Now, however, the pacification teams will be manned by members of the Popular and Regional Forces, military irregulars mobilized as a home guard for village and hamlet defense and taken from the Vietnamese draft. Up to now, these irregulars have been the underprivileged stepchild of the regular South Vietnamese army. Now they will be given new status by being drawn into the pacification effort.

What makes this switch possible is the fact that Gen. Nguyen Thang, the army's strongest force for pacification and one of the best of the Saigon generals, is now the vice chief of the army's joint general staff. This gives him powerful leverage to force the army to provide more resources to the irregulars. Moreover, the bulk of the planned increase of 65,000 in the size of the South Vietnamese military structure for next year will be in the irregular forces, most of whom will now be assigned directly to pacification.

Thus, in prospect over the next 12 months is a vast expansion of pacification teams. Assigned to Own Homes One feature of the plan — assigning the new teams to their own homes — is a radical departure from the old system.

Whether the new works only time can tell. The irregulars have been neglected so long that their morale is low, which contributes to their high desertion rate. Moreover, up to now they have been the special target of Communist infiltration. But this month General Thang forced the regular army to give the irregulars a scale of pay and family allotments, based on a new system of military ranks, that is supposed to reward excellence. (Previously, all the irregulars were privates.) Plan 1,000 Teams Beyond this, the rapid deterioration of Main Force Viet Cong units is reducing the all-out attacks on hamlets occupied by pacification teams. This means less fear of being overrun at night, which should make pacification workers less vulnerable to Communist propaganda.

The new plan claims that 1,000 of the new teams will be trained and on duty in 1,000 hamlets by the end of next year. If one half that goal is reached, U. S. planners won't be unhappy. But even at the planned rate of 1,000 trained teams a year, it will be several years before all Communist-infiltrated hamlets are taken care of.

Thus, even if everything goes well, the political war will continue for many years, a fact that more and more is being conceded by top officials in Washington.

International School Clintonville Teacher a Hong Kong Principal

BY MARY WALTER Post-Crescent Staff Writer

HONG KONG — The only American school in Hong Kong is the Hong Kong International school for grades kindergarten through twelfth. Its elementary principal is Lester Zimmerman who spent the previous seven years as mathematics teacher at St. Martin Lutheran School at Clintonville, Wis.

Although the International School opened the brand new doors on its seven-story building only this September, it had provided rented quarters for a school the previous year. Six hundred fifty youngsters of 15 nationalities now attend the school. About 80 per cent of them are the children of Americans now living in Hong Kong and some 13 per cent are Chinese. The teaching staff reflects the diversity of the student body. Again the majority are American, recruited by the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, but there are also British, Chinese, Australian and Burmese teachers. The school is both international and inter-denominational.

Part of the pressure for a school for American children in Hong Kong came from the difference in the school calendar between British and American educational systems. Those at British schools in Hong Kong put in about 245 days of school compared with the 180-day American school year. The longest vacations are five weeks in August and three weeks during the Chinese New Year. The International school must adjust to both systems to some extent and Thanksgiving Day is a holiday. Equally confusing, especially for children here only a short time, is the difference in presenting subject matter especially at the secondary level.

Zimmerman, his wife, who teaches kindergarten and sixth grade, and their two children, Kathleen, in fourth grade, and Michael, in first, are highly enthusiastic about the school, Hong Kong, and their own work in the area. They will be here for at least three years.

Next to the school, but not officially connected with it, is the church of All Nations — Lutheran. Religious instruction is given in the school, as it is in all schools, private and government sponsored in Hong Kong.

Naval Airman From Appleton Killed in Action

Dennis R. Schmidt Was Serving Aboard Carrier

Naval Airman I.C. Dennis R. Schmidt, 19, 2109 Carpenter St., was killed in action in Vietnam early Monday night, according to notification his parents received early Tuesday.

Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt, died while the aircraft carrier, on which he was stationed, the U.S.S. Coral Seas, was launching strikes from the Gulf of Tonkin against North Vietnam, according to a Naval officer who notified his parents.

His father reported that Dennis, who had said in a letter about two weeks ago that he was in charge of a hangar elevator, had apparently been caught in a draft caused by the jet turbine and prop airplanes. The victim reportedly had mentioned the danger in the letter.

The airman was on his second tour of duty in Vietnam and was scheduled to return to the states in February. He had boarded the carrier for Vietnam July 29, 1966 and was completed on February 24, 1967.

Schmidt left Xavier High School and joined the Navy in September of 1965 when he was 17. He was scheduled for discharge when he was 21.

He is survived by his parents, a sister, two brothers and his grandparents. No arrangements for the return of the body and the funeral were reported.

Robin Hood in Reverse

LaFollette Denounces Laws on Garnishment

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette called for changes in Wisconsin's laws on garnishment and consumer protection in two talks here Tuesday.

LaFollette spoke at an assembly of senior and junior high school students Tuesday afternoon and concluded a day-long visit to Waupaca County cities with a speech at the evening Lions Club meeting.

"Wisconsin's present garnishment laws operate under the principle of Robin Hood in reverse. They take from the poor and give to the rich," LaFollette charged. Speaking to the Lions, LaFollette was critical of the State Senate's action last month which killed a bill designed to reform Wisconsin's harsh wage garnishment laws.

Circumvents Court

"Present law permits a creditor to garnish wages once without reducing the debt to judgment. It has long been known that the poor pay more, as a proportion of income, for food, shelter and clothing. But that the law compounds the hardships of the poor, by allowing creditors to take a man's wages without first getting a court judgment, is intolerable," said the attorney general.

"Wage garnishments frequently mean loss of a job because employers find it cheaper to fire the offending employee than to make the demanded deductions from his paycheck, he added.

LaFollette explained that the present law permits a creditor to lop off a portion of the indebted employee's wage before getting a court judgment, and that it encourages the unprincipled and unscrupulous merchants to use deceitful credit gimmicks on the unsophisticated, poor consumer, and then use garnishment to carry out his scheme.

"The garnishment injustice in Wisconsin must be corrected. Wage garnishment actions should be allowed only after judgment has been obtained against the debtor, and to do otherwise amounts to judgment without a trial. The State Senate, by defeating the bill to reform wage garnishment laws, has abrogated its duty to the consumers of Wisconsin," LaFollette charged.

Discusses Fraud

The attorney general's talk in front of the student bodies dealt with easy credit and fraudulent sales gimmicks.

He called for improved legislation to enable local district attorneys and the attorney general's office to have greater power in recovering money for consumers in cases where fraud could be proved.

"Illinois has a law in effect which has led to the recovering of more than $1 million from persons and firms using fraudulent means of sales," LaFollette

Attorney General Visits Three Waupaca Cities

NEW LONDON — Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, an announced but probable candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, showed political adeptness in a tour of Waupaca County's three large cities Tuesday.

His itinerary included visits with workers at Woody's Cheese Co., Waupaca, and FWD Corp., Clintonville. Two speeches given in New London were aimed at the working man as they dealt with improving the state's garnishment and consumer protection laws.

The attorney general proved glib in fielding questions put to him by the student body of New London Senior High School.

Pleases Students

"If our young men can serve in Vietnam, they should be able to have a glass of beer," was LaFollette's reply to a question by a student about a uniform 21-year-old drinking age. Students gave thunderous applause to his statement.

He said that similar (21-year-old drinking) laws in other states didn't halt drinking but encouraged drinking-driving, the object of prohibiting sale of alcohol to youthful citizens.

LaFollette saw little chance of adoption of the governor's traffic safety bill as proposed.

"The 21-year-old drinking age, implied consent law and mandatory vehicle inspection portions of the bill have failed to gain popular support," he said in a press conference interview.

LaFollette said, "It is my view that they aren't essential in getting a traffic bill adopted which will be essential to safety. It is my opinion that a different version of the bill, eliminating the three controversial items,

He was arrested in Chilton Nov. 22 when city police found him driving erratically on N. Madison Street.

The court revoked Mueller's driver's license for one year.

Clintonville to Adopt Budget

CLINTONVILLE — The city council will meet for a special session at 7:30 p.m. today to consider the public hearing on the proposed 1968 budget, to adopt the budget, to set the tax rate. The council also will consider the bids for Thangers as advertised by the airport commission.

Planners Reschedule Meeting on Proposed Shoreline Zoning Study

The meeting of the Outagamie County Zoning Committee and town chairman for more study of the proposed shoreland zoning ordinance has been rescheduled for Dec. 7, instead of Dec. 5.

William Morris, executive director, Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, said that the meeting, like one held in early November, will be geared to give town chairman more opportunity to participate in the zoning, which is required by state law.

He said adoption of the Outagamie ordinance is expected in early January.

New London's Business district has a holiday atmosphere now that the new street decorations have been put in place. The city's street department and utilities commission crews teamed up to complete the work. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Contracts Needed For Pipeline Land

Appleton to Start Action to Get Sites Enroute to Lake Winnebago

Legal proceedings will be initiated soon by the City of Appleton to get possession of two pieces of property required for the Lake Winnebago water pipeline, it was learned Tuesday.

City Atty. David Geenen and Public Works Director Frank Keuler conferred on the matter Monday at city hall.

City officials are hoping a second federal grant for water plant expansion will be received from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Until further federal aid is received, the $4.5 million water expansion project will be blocked from getting into the actual construction stage.

Previously, the city received assurances of getting $892,000 in federal monies for the pipeline, which will extend from the plant, south on Oneida Street, to the lake.

One of the two properties needed by the city is the site of the proposed pumping station off the shore of Lake Winnebago.

Several other tracts required for the pipeline right-of-way driver of a car in which a Waupaca girl suffered head injuries when it crashed into a tree Nov. 12, appeared in Municipal Justice Court Tuesday and Harrison to allow it to lay the pipeline along a town road right-of-way leading from State 114 to $100 and costs.

The accident occurred on the County Trunk X in the Town of Weyauwega. A 17-year-old Weyauwega boy, also a passenger in work under William Sirek, VTE-12, the State 10 right-of-way for the car, suffered minor injuries.

Weyauwega Man Fined $100 for Reckless Driving

WAUPACA — William D. Wail, 22, route 1, Weyauwega, Michigan for one year and for the Navy Air Corps in Chicago for 3 1/2 years. In 1945 he came to Kaukauna as an instructor and in 1954 was appointed director.

While in Kaukauna, Bordini received his master's degree in vocational education from Stout and has additional credits from the University of Wisconsin.

In his new position he will be involved with plans for the central facility. He will also write educational specifications for the district program.

A native of Hurley, Bordini attended Ironwood Junior College in Michigan, later receiving his bachelor's degree from Stout State University.

After graduation he taught in Michigan for one year and for the Navy Air Corps in Chicago for 3 1/2 years. In 1945 he came to Kaukauna as an instructor and in 1954 was appointed director.

In his new position he will be involved with plans for the central facility. He will also write educational specifications for the district program.

But Are Irked At Handling Of Budget

CHILTON — Calumet County municipal leaders were in agreement Monday night that they would not become involved suits contesting Vocational Educational and Adult Education District 12's right to tax for site and construction costs.

City, village and town officials gathered at the city hall for an informal review of the controversial VTE-12 levy. The levies, in most cases, took municipal officials by surprise when they far surpassed any previous demands made on communities for vocational education.

Several city officials in the Fox Valley challenged the wisdom of the budget practices singling out the appropriation made for site acquisition and development. This, it was claimed, should be done through long-term bonding to ease the current tax burden. There are threats of taxpayer suits and a call for an attorney general's opinion on the issue.

While agreeing not to join suits against the district, most officials expressed indignation at the lack of information given before the VTE-12 budget was adopted.

Also discussed were methods of informing their constituents of the VTE-12 program and its future needs and how the programs will benefit taxpayers.

Brillion Names Outstanding Young Farmer 32 Years Old and Farms 205 Acres

BRILLION — Raphael Geiger, 32, route 1, Brillion, has been named Outstanding Young Farmer (OYF) of the area by the Brillion Jaycees.

Geiger and his wife Maxine, will represent the local Jaycees at the state OYF competition next weekend at the Jaycee mid-winter convention at Fond du Lac and will be honored at a Farm and City Day dinner here in February.

The progressive young farmer spent two years in the Marine Corps after his high school graduation in 1954. After his discharge he worked with his father on the home farm for six years and in 1962 Geiger and his wife took over the entire operation.

Farm 205 Acres

Of the 205 acres they own, 175 are tillable. Geiger owns 90 head of cattle and is currently milking 49 registered Holsteins. He is associated with the Grade-A milk market and the butterfat average of his herd has risen from 340 pounds per cow to 459 pounds since he began farming.

Geiger has a dry lot feeding program with five acres of loafing area. The use of high quality feed and proper breeding aided the increase in milk production, he said.

Principal Hobby

Geiger is an avid hunter but stated that his main hobby is attending sales of Holstein cattle, inspecting registered herds and reading extensively about dairy cow family backgrounds. As a result he has been able to improve his own herd in production and type, he said.

Soil testing and conservation practices insure him the most production from his land. He is currently retidching and tiling his land and has 3,500 feet of grass waterways.

The use of certified seeds, extensive use of commercial and natural fertilizers and a seven-year crop rotation program have

Well Equipped

The farm is equipped with a bulk milk tank and an automatic electric pipe milk line.

Construction of a 52 by 112 foot free stall and bunk feeder barn was completed two years ago.

Since the Geigers bought the farm in 1962, they have purchased self-unloading forage racks, forage blower, corn picker, tractor, chisel plow, a gravity grain box, a side delivery rake, mounted haymower, four-row corn planter and a manure spreader.

Mrs. Geiger is kept busy with their children — Karen, 6, Colleen, 5, Yvonne, 4, Jerome, 3, Mary, 1 1/2, and 3-month-old Denise.

Competent Secretary

"Every good business has a competent secretary," Geiger said, referring to his wife and the extensive bookkeeping she does with farm records. They keep Agrifax IBM farm records, Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA), standard records and breeding records.

The Geigers belong to St. Mary Catholic Church, Brillion. He is a member of the Holy Name Society there, is on the board of directors of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America; is a past member of the Calumet Rural Youth Organization and the Future Farmers of America (FFA). He is a member of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), the Pure Milk Association and the Midwest Breeders Association.

William Scholz, route 1, Hilbert, was last year's area OYF. Richard Levash, route 1, Brillion; Norman Nennig, route 2, Chilton and Orlo Koerth, Brillion, were named OYF in the three years prior. Levash is this year's Jaycee OYF committee chairman.

NEW LONDON — The Wolf River here froze over Monday night about a month earlier than in recent years, as temperatures dipped to an unofficial 7 de- grees. Cold weather during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend formed a thin ice cover over portions of the river. Monday's temperatures were just what the anxious ice fishermen had or- dered for Christmas. In the past two years the river did not freeze over until late December or early January. High water in late fall had much to do with the late freeze over. Authorities have issued a warning to stay off the ice because it is now unsafe.

Father Kavanaugh, 39, author of the best-selling "A Modern Priest Looks at His Outdated Church," told newsmen Tuesday his wedding to Patricia

Miss Walden Kavanaugh

Jean Walden, 35, will take place whether or not the Catholic Church grants his three-month-old request for permission to resign from the priesthood.

The priest currently works for the Human Relations Institute in La Jolla, a San Diego suburb. He said the marriage will take place in the home of his brother, Dr. Philip Kavanaugh of La Jolla.

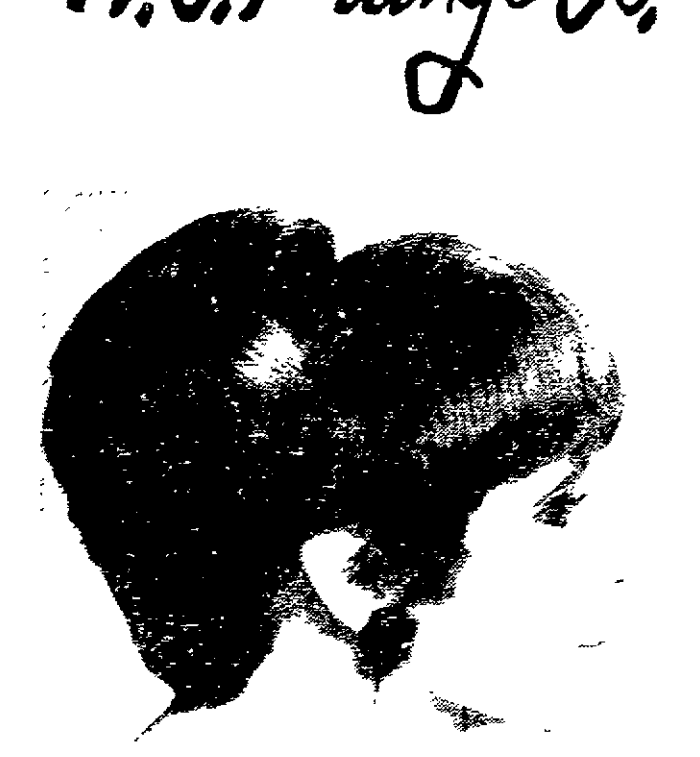

Miss Walden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Walden, of St. Petersburg, Fla. She is an Episcopalian, and the Rev. David Crump, an Episcopal priest from Newport Beach, Calif., will perform the ceremony.

Father Kavanaugh says he has in effect resigned as a priest but he still considers himself a Catholic. A Catholic spokesman in San Diego said that, once ordained, a priest is forever ordained unless relieved of his duties by papal dispensation. If a priest marries, the spokesman said, the union is not considered valid and is equivalent to de facto excommunication.

"Officially, they can say I might be excommunicated," Father Kavanaugh commented. "But the primary source of any sin would be man's violation of his own personal conscience. Since I am acting in accord with my conscience, I am acting in accord with God." Father Kavanaugh was a priest in Lansing, Mich., before coming to the Human Resources Institute. He received an extended leave of absence from Bishop Alexander Zaleski shortly before his book was published this year.

The word "caucus" is of uncertain etymology, although an Indian origin is strongly suggested. Its usage was first recorded in 18th century New England.

Hawk Enters Vietnam Scene as Dove Exit

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is more of a hawk in this war than the Johnson administration has been—so far.

Eisenhower said he would approve invading the demilitarized zone in Vietnam, pursuing enemy ground forces into Laos and Cambodia, and even chasing enemy planes into Red China.

He spoke Tuesday night in a CBS television interview which was taped last Friday, three days before the news leaked out that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who has a much more restrained view of the war, is leaving President Johnson's cabinet.

Negroes to Start
Own Bus Line
In Watts District

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While the threat of a bus drivers strike hung over Los Angeles, a Negro self-help organization has announced it has purchased a bus line and charter bus company to operate in South Los Angeles.

Drivers of the Southern California Rapid Transit District have threatened to stop driving on routes in south-central Los Angeles because of its high crime rate.

Dr. Thomas W. Matthew, director of the National Economic Growth and Reconstruction Organization, said Monday his group bought 26 buses and a franchise to operate in areas including Watts.

He said the company would employ 36 drivers—most of them Negro.

George Loses Chance
To Become Astronaut

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Science students at Oklahoma City's Taft Junior High School readied their own homemade rocket launching recently — and George, the white mouse, was to be the star of the show, riding a rocket into space.

But when the time came for George's big moment, the geesed, its usage was first recorded in 18th century New England.

about it, in more cautious terms than Eisenhower's.

For instance, except for a comparatively brief incursion months ago, American forces have stayed out of the demilitarized zone in Vietnam. And, contrary to the wishes of top U.S. military men, those forces have put a limit on bombing targets, including the harbor of Haiphong in the North.

And American fliers have been careful to avoid the air space over Red China.

Eisenhower sounded more like the Senate preparedness subcommittee which last August was sharply critical of McNamara's less than all-out ideas on fighting the war.

War With China

It recommended an immediate increase in bombing of all important military targets in North Vietnam, even if it risked war with Red China. It has long been taken for granted the Johnson administration did not want to give Red China an excuse for coming into the war by an American invasion of North Vietnam or American pursuit of North Vietnamese planes over China.

But Eisenhower discounted the possibility of major intervention by Red China or the Soviet Union if his views were followed. The former President said the United States can win the war and should do so as quickly as possible.

The preparedness subcommittee, which listened to testimony from McNamara in August, said: "What is needed now is the hard decision to do whatever is necessary, take the risks that have to be taken, and apply the force that is required to see the job through."

In his testimony McNamara warned against widening the war with the risk of involving the Soviet Union or Red China, were the unanimous recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other top military leaders.

McNamara was of the opinion that increased bombing could not win or shorten the war and that the final victory must be won by ground forces in South Vietnam.

The subcommittee conceded the war could not be won alone by air or bombing attacks but insisted these tactics are vital to a successful ground war in South Vietnam.

And, the subcommittee complained, "Every military witness who testified emphasized that the air war has been waged under severe handicaps which were contrary to military principles."

The senators, in a report on their hearings, stressed sharp differences between McNamara's view and what the subcommittee said fiercer war?

Bombing Haiphong

While more targets in North Vietnam have been removed from the administration's restricted list in the past year, McNamara was against bombing Haiphong's docks and up until now the administration has backed him up on that.

The Eisenhower statements and the McNamara departure, coming so close together, may have been sheer coincidence. But the most interesting question left is this: With McNamara out of the way, will Johnson move over to the Eisenhower view and start making this a lot and what the subcommittee said fiercer war?

Witness Balks but Hearings Resume

Probe of Mysterious Death Continues at Fond du Lac

Special to The Post-Crescent — FOND DU LAC — A grand jury probing the mysterious death of Herbert L. McKinley, 28, of Chicago, resumed deliberations here today with the head of the State Justice Department assisting.

McKinley, beaten and shot, was found Sept. 11 on a farm near Kewaskum in southeastern Fond du Lac County.

There has been speculation and rumor the slaying may be linked to gangland activity. Officials reportedly have suspects.

The corpse was found on the farm of two brothers, one a Chicago policeman.

Refuses To Answer

The jury was abruptly recessed Tuesday afternoon when a West Bend attorney refused to answer questions and was threatened with a contempt citation.

Persons appearing before a grand jury do so for the purpose of presenting information and are not necessarily guilty of any wrongdoing.

Added Significance

Adding significance to the investigation is the presence of Leroy Dalton, head man in the justice division of the Wisconsin Attorney General's office.

Fond du Lac County District Attorney Alex Semenas called for the grand jury probe.

It will be up to the jury whether or not an indictment should be returned.

Persons from the Chicago area were scheduled to testify before the panel today.

Waupaca Sets Immunizations

County Schools To Start Last Of Series Tuesday

WAUPACA — The third in the series of immunization centers will be conducted throughout Waupaca County the first week in December.

Children who received their second inoculation in the whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus series will receive their final inoculation, according to Mrs. DuWayne Tanner, county nurse.

Those who received their first inoculation of diphtheria and tetanus toxoid at the second round of centers will receive their second inoculation to complete their series. Boosters will be given to children through the fifth grade. Boosters should be given every three years, Mrs. Tanner said. Smallpox vaccination is recommended every five years, the nurse said.

The schedule is Iola Elementary School, starting at noon, Tuesday and Marion Elementary School at 2 p.m., Waupaca Central Grade School, 9:30 a.m. Dec. 6. For children of the Weyauwega and Manawa areas the center will be at St. Peter School gymnasium at 9 a.m. Dec. 7.

Deer Jumps Over Hood Into Truck

CLINTONVILLE — Damage to a 1966 panel truck was estimated at $150 about 9:50 a.m. Tuesday when a deer jumped over the hood, through the windshield into the truck, according to Waupaca County police.

The accident occurred 8 miles south of here on U.S. 45 in the Town of Lebanon. Clifford H. Buck, 57, 202 W. Sessions St., Waupaca, was traveling south when the deer bolted into the path of the vehicle.

La Follette Attacks Laws In Garnishment

lection are overlooked in the education of our youth," he told the students. "We spend money on schools to teach them about their government and how to make a living, how to feed and clothe themselves — but not much is spent on enabling them to spend wisely."

As family financing becomes greater, "consumer education" becomes more important, he said. A lack of consumer education results in many problems for young married people and statistics show that four of five marriages of persons under 20-years-old end up in divorce, La Follette said.

He said that financial problems were the major cause of most of these divorces and that "easy credit" to give the young people the "good way of life" led to overspending of income.

"Before he knows it, he is tied to financial debts way over his means," La Follette said. As a result he turns to drinking, files bankruptcy and the situation deteriorates to the point where it leads to divorce.

La Follette said that as the U.S. moves to a "cashless" society, truth in lending, and truth in packaging legislation, becomes more important. Fraudulent salesmen hurt the honest, upstanding merchant by taking away money from established businesses in the form of dishonest or misrepresented sales, he said.

Jail Brillion Men After Weekend Trip With Girls

CHILTON — Two Brillion men, formerly of Oconto Falls and Crivitz, were found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors, when they appeared Monday before Judge D. H. Sebara, in Calumet County Court.

Ronald Knaus, 22, was ordered to pay a fine of $200 and serve 60 days under the Huber Law in the Calumet County Jail. Knaus was given an additional 60 days in lieu of payment of his fine.

Donald Rush, 19, was ordered to pay $150 and serve 40 days under the Huber Law and given 40 additional days in lieu of paying his fine.

Both men were arrested after they took two 14-year-old girls from Calumet and Brown Counties on a weekend trip to Northern Wisconsin Nov. 17.

The girls have been turned over to juvenile authorities in their respective counties.

Hear About Mental Illness

Policemen Briefed on Emergency Childbirth

Fox Valley policemen were briefed Tuesday on how to deliver babies and handle mental patients.

The instruction was contained in the third of five sessions comprising the Appleton Police Department's 1967 in-service training program, attended by lawmen from Appleton, Outagamie County, and various area cities and villages.

The first part of Tuesday's program concerned emergency childbirth. The instructor was Dr. George J. Petersen, of Appleton, who illustrated his presentation with a sound-cord movie of a Berkeley, Calif., patrolman performing an emergency childbirth in the back seat of a car.

Advise Caution

Dr. Petersen advised the policemen to "keep calm," and explained that the main task was little more than "receiving" the infant. "It's better to do nothing at all than do something wrong," he said. Dr. Petersen cautioned against "interfering with the natural process" of childbirth.

After outlining the birth and delivery process, Dr. Petersen pointed out that the baby's mouth must be cleared of mucus and fluids and the baby must be kept warm. He advised using a back stroke, light slap on the foot, or mouth-to-mouth resuscitation if the baby does not breath right away.

Dr. Petersen told policemen it is not necessary to cut the umbilical cord immediately.

He also briefed the class on how to deal with certain serious conditions, such as breach delivery, strangulation caused by the umbilical cord, and hemorrhaging by the mother. Policemen were told how to meet sanitary standards under the emergency conditions.

Tapes Interviews

Milton Varsos, chief psychologist for the State Department of Health and Social Services, used tape recordings of actual interviews in jails and psychiatric hospitals to emphasize his presentation on how to recognize and handle

"abnormal people."

One tape recorded a conversation with a young girl who ran away because she hated her mother. Varsos told a man who slit a 16-year-old girl's throat because he believed, after he saw her watching him on a bus, that she was a Communist agent who was "after him."

Varsos outlined the psychotic disorders as being disorientation, delusions of persecution, hallucinations and other emotional disturbances. He said that psychotic disorders "are among the most serious types of problems to deal with." He told lawmen about known psychotic reactions so police could recognize and deal with them accordingly.

Elect Student Council Officers at Clintonville

Club Calls Rescue Unit

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad was called about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday to Fischer's Riviera Supper Club when Lawrence Roloff, Revalton, who was attending a meeting at the club, became ill. The rescue unit transported him to Community Hospital for treatment.

Attorney General Visits Three Waupaca Cities

"I have called for increased pay for our police officers and maintained a consistent flow of information to local police through interpretations, reports on court decisions, annual conferences and communications," La Follette concluded.

Rosholt Cagers Hand Amherst 72-47 Setback

AMHERST — Good shooting, tall players and a good offense helped Rosholt to defeat Amherst here Tuesday night, 72-47, in a non-conference game.

High scorer for Rosholt was Dennis Trzabiatowski with 19. Amherst's Swetella led his team with 19.

La Follette expressed the hope that the University of Wisconsin officials would take proper action against those involved in the demonstrations. "The due process of the law must be followed," he added.

Involve Minority

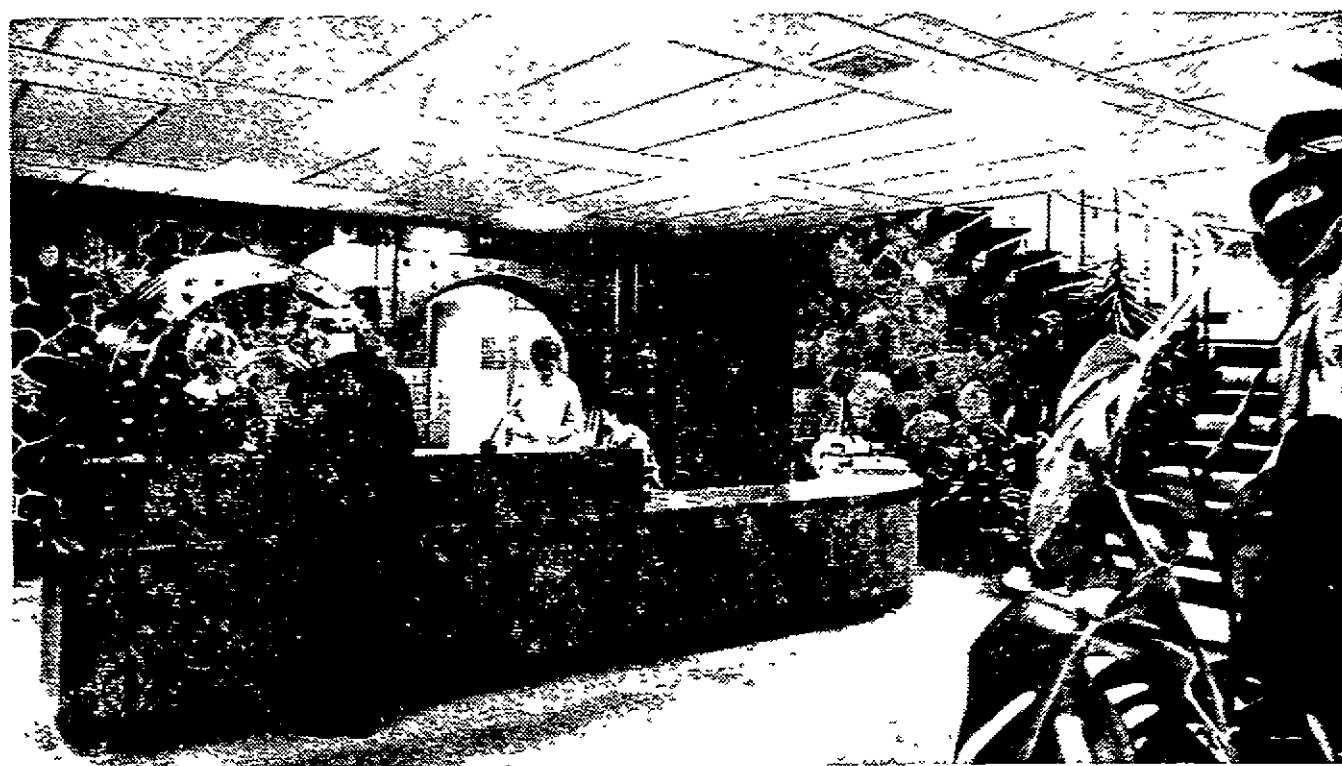

He said a bill to reduce the percentage of out-of-state students wouldn't solve the problem. "A very small minority of the 33,000 students was involved — I think it would be silly to pass a law hastily and it won't accomplish the desired effect," he said.

Statements made about police action in the demonstrations were distorted, La Follette said. "I have done more to help law enforcement officers than any other attorney general, he added.

Churches Join Service

CLINTONVILLE — St. Paul Lutheran Church will have joint mid-week Advent services with St. Martin Lutheran Church, Belle Plaine at 8 p.m. Dec. 6 at enforcement officers than any other attorney general, he added.

Christmas Decorations Abound With Tradition

It's Christmas time again! The spirit of this most joyful season is seen in homes aglow with light and festive with decorations.

It means a warm renewal of family ties and close friendships. Best of all, it is reflected by the faces of children, excited and happy, full of awe and wonder as they hear Christmas legends and see the sparkling array of decorations.

Since that holy night when angels sang and wise men traveled far to behold the miracle of the first Christmas, scores of legends have developed as to the origins of many customs observed during the season.

Although many traditions are now lost in time, there are other Christmas customs that have been recorded for posterity.

'Gold' In Toe

One of them is the story of the first Christmas stocking, a story associated with the real St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop known for his many acts of kindness. Because of his desire to give a gift anonymously to help the daughters of a poor merchant, he thrust a bag of gold down the chimney, where it landed in a stocking hung up to dry. That is the reason for today's custom of placing an orange — "gold" — into the toe of a Christmas stocking.

It has been said that there was no candle to light the stable at Bethlehem. But from time immemorial tapers have been placed in windows to light the way for the Christ Child. Anyone who came to the door was invited to enter as there were those who believed He would appear, concealing his identity, to learn the extent of their kindness. Candles contribute not only to the feeling of reverence but play an important role in our holiday decorations.

Christmas wreaths may be traced to the customs of Advent season, the four Sundays before Christmas, a period of preparation for the coming of the Christ Child. The Advent wreath is made of evergreen branches intertwined with red ribbon. Four candles are affixed to the wreath. One is lit at dusk on the first Sunday of Advent, two the following Sunday, three the next, and four on the last Sunday before Christmas. The wreath may be placed on a door, hung over a mantel, or set on a table.

Most Cherished

The Christmas tree, most cherished of all the nation's customs, was first introduced with ornaments of the durable press trousers and other garments wrong side out to help a few homesick Hessian soldiers prevent such frosting.

This sturdy little houseplant bears an astonishing resemblance to a Christmas tree, and the larger specimens have branches that are actually strong enough to support small presents and decorations. If space is limited in your house or apartment this Christmas, consider the charm of this living table tree. It will beautify your surroundings for years to come.

50th Wedding Anniversary Observed

CHILTON — Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Bruckner, 51 W. Washington St., marked their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Leslie Gurett, Reed Street.

The couple was married Nov. 26, 1917. They have ten children: Norman, Milwaukee; Mrs. Thomas Williams, Wauwatosa; Elmer, Milwaukee; Mrs. Ed Rozman and Mrs. Donald Boll, both of Kiel, and Irene, Herbert, Andrew, Gustave Jr., and Mrs. Gruett, all of Chilton. There are 36 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. Bruckner was employed at the Chilton Maling Company prior to his retirement.

Christmas Decorations Abound With Tradition

It's Christmas time again! The spirit of this most joyful season is seen in homes aglow with light and festive with decorations.

It means a warm renewal of family ties and close friendships. Best of all, it is reflected by the faces of children, excited and happy, full of awesome wonder as they hear Christmas legends and see the sparkling array of decorations.

Since that holy night when angels sang and wise men traveled far to behold the miracle of the first Christmas, scores of legends have developed as to the origins of many customs observed during the season.

Although many traditions are now lost in time, there are other Christmas customs that have been recorded for posterity.

"Gold" In Toe

One of them is the story of the first Christmas stocking, a story associated with the real St. Nicholas, a fourth century bishop known for his many acts of kindness. Because of his desire to give a gift anonymously to help the daughters of a poor merchant, he thrust a bag of gold down the chimney, where it landed in a stocking hung up to dry. That is the reason for today's custom of placing an orange — "gold" — into the toe of a Christmas stocking.

It has been said that there was no candle to light the stable at Bethlehem. But from time immemorial tapers have been placed in windows to light the way for the Christ Child. Anyone who came to the door was invited to enter as there were those who believed he would appear, concealing his identity, to learn the extent of their kindness. Candles contribute not only to the feeling of reverence but play an important role in our holiday decorations.

Christmas wreaths may be traced to the customs of Advent season, the four Sundays before Christmas, a period of preparation for the coming of the Christ Child. The Advent wreath is made of evergreen branches intertwined with red ribbon. Four candles are affixed to the wreath. One is lit at dusk on the first Sunday of Advent, two the following Sunday, three the next, and four on the last Sunday before Christmas. The wreath may be placed on a door, hung over a mantel, or set on a table.

Most Cherished

The Christmas tree, most cherished of all the nation's Yuletide customs, was first trimmed with ornaments of the durable press trousers and other time and lighted in America by a few homesick Hessian soldiers in the year 1776 to relieve their loneliness. The tradition of the Christmas tree developed rapidly through the country. From Germany, through Europe and on to America, the spirit of Christmas was reflected in the lights and gay decorations of the tree.

Merrie Olde England was the first to celebrate the traditional "open house" at Christmas. It dates back to the days of the Saxons, when the lords invited nobility and peasant alike to share in the feasting and rejoicing at their magnificent halls with Yule logs burning in the great fireplaces. The scent of fresh holly, evergreen and mistletoe mingled with the aroma of baking cakes with chopped citron, plum puddings, and mince pies.

A home in traditional Christmas attire brings glowing delight to youngsters and a sense of warmth and well-being to all who enter to participate in the Yuletide spirit of the surrounding, a joyous heritage from the past.

Ceremony Performed

LEEMAN — Miss Barbara Jean Thiede and Eddie W. Boody were married in an 8 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Trinity United Church of Christ. Nicholas Performing the double ring rite was the Rev. Robert Hamilton.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thiede, route 1, Shiocton. Mr. Boody is the son of Mrs. Joseph Boody, route 1, Shiocton, and the late Mr. Boody.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Allen, route 1, Shiocton, were honor attendants for the couple. Guests were seated by Jack Heideman and Kenneth Fields.

A reception was held at Hop's Retreat, Leeman.

Mr. Boody is employed at the Neenah Foundry Co. The newlyweds will reside at route 1, Shiocton.

Avoid Light Crease

Because creases in durable press garments are so sharp, there is little "give" during wear and laundering so the dye lightens or fades during wear. This so-called "frosting" is especially noticeable on darker colors.

Are stains under the nails your problem? To remove discolorations clean under nail tips with a cotton swab dipped in cuticle remover. Follow with a sudsy brush-scrub and then, using a fresh swab, underline nails with a film of hand lotion. As a stain preventative run nails over damp bar soap before tackling grimy jobs.

Does callus form on your writing finger — the middle finger where the pen rests? Both callus and ragged cuticle result from work that calls for constant writing by hand. The trouble responds to applications of cuticle oil several times daily. To protect the area from further friction cover it with a strip of cellophane mending tape while you work.

Are you the victim of chipped polish? Discourage chipping by keeping the nails filed in medium-short ovals, and by applying polish sealer every other night between manicures.

Is your hand complexion discolored from rough work? A combination of waterproof work gloves, silicone hand lotion and a skin bleach satimizes the hand complexion.

Civil Defense Mobilized in Malay Riots

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — The government mobilized civil defense groups today to quell new rioting in the interior. It was the sixth straight day of racial clashes between Malays and Chinese in northwest Malaysia, the northwest part of the country. One racial battle was reported 200 miles to the south near Kuala Lumpur.

The nationwide toll from the riots that began last Friday as a protest against monetary devaluation involving about 30 Malays rose to 19 dead and 200 Chinese 20 miles west of injured, half of them seriously.

A police spokesman said 682 persons have been arrested. The civilian defense groups would be deployed along coastal areas where order has been re-ing in assisting the police and military.

They were previously used during the 1948-60 Communist insurrection and the 1963-66 guerrilla war with Indonesia.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman broadcast an appeal for calm and blamed the riots on Communist terrorists and sympathizers of Mao Tse-tung. But reports from northwest Malaysia said most of the attacks were made by Malays on Chinese. The Malays resent the economic domination which the hard working Chinese have attained.

Rahman toured many of the riot areas today, including his home state of Kedah, where limited martial law was declared Tuesday.

He warned that "the Communists are out to create trouble and chaos so they can take over the country."

Privileges of School Granted Unwed Mother

ROCKWELL CITY, Iowa (AP) — Because a girl has a baby out of wedlock doesn't mean a high school can ban her from certain school activities, a judge ruled recently.

The 17-year-old girl filed a suit asking that the Lytton Community School District be enjoined from barring her from extra-curricular activities. The girl said she wants to participate in music, drama, speech and basketball.

Calhoun County District

Judge David Harris said the girl cannot be denied participation in courses or activities during regular school hours for which full or partial credit is allowed toward graduation.

When the United Nations General Assembly decided Tuesday to keep Communist China out for another year, the voting looked like this. The resolution by Communist Albania and 11 other nations to give the Chinese seat to Peking and expel Nationalist China failed to get even a simple majority. A two-thirds vote was needed for admission. The assembly also rejected a resolution to set up a study committee on the representation question. Eisenhower, Bradley Debate Vietnam War

I think you can overdo it. Now we don't want to invade North Vietnam and destroy it, but they're right down in the DMZ and right north of it, and now it seems to me, if we wanted, to put on an operation that would get this menace eliminated. I think this wouldn't be invading—then this would be removing a thorn in our sides. That's the way I look at war. I think you do too.

BRADLEY: In other words, you're suggesting, one operation might be to make an end run around the DMZ and knock their artillery out . . .

EISENHOWER: That's right, either from the sea, or from the hills . . .

BRADLEY: — From the hills. In other words they didn't respect the DMZ that was put in there and everybody was supposed to stay out of there. They disregarded that agreement and they came on through and built up in it, and shoot over it right behind the protection—maybe we should—who with. I'm not saying let's do it, but it's something we certainly have to consider . . .

EISENHOWER: No . . . But what I'm saying is, that sort of sacrosanct idea of a line on the ground that no one can see, but it's on your maps, and you must respect it in—to the ultimate . . . This, I just don't agree with . . . and this is not an invasion.

Regent Chief Doesn't Want Student Limit

MADISON (AP)— Officials of the University of Wisconsin warned state lawmakers Tuesday against hasty legislation aimed at reducing student anti-war demonstrations.

"Don't interfere unnecessarily," said Kenneth Greenquest of Racine, president of the school's board of regents. "We have the very future of this state at stake."

Greenquest appeared at a hearing before the legislature's Joint Finance Committee to oppose a bill seeking to curb enrollments of non-resident students.

Many lawmakers blame out-of-state students for leading a Vietnam protest Oct. 18 that erupted into club-swinging clashes between students and police.

The measure before the legislature would force the school to cut its out-of-state student enrollment to 15 per cent beginning next year. About 40 per cent of the students on campus currently are from areas outside Wisconsin.

The bill has already received a 74-23 preliminary approval in the Assembly. No committee action was taken Tuesday.
